COMING OF DEUTSCHLAND MAY MARK PASSING OF THE ERA OF BLOCKADES, U. S. OFFICERS DECLARE

(BULLETIN)

Baltimore, Md., July 10.—Upon delivering his ship's papers to the office of the North German Lloyd line today, Captain Paul Konig of the submarine merchantman Deutschland, issued a for-statement declaring his voyage across the Atlantic had broken England's rule of the seas.

Baltimore, Md., July 10.—The gigantic German merchant submarine Deutschland ended her voyage across the Atlantic at 6:40 this morning when she was docked at the pier of the Eastern Forwarding company, on the outskirts of Baltimore.

The submarine left Quarantine at 5:30 after the health officers had boarded the craft and given permission to proceed. It was announced that a statement would be made regarding the extraordinary voyage by officials of the North German Lloyd company later today.

Baltimore, Md., July 10.—Captain Paul Konig of the Deutschland, disposed finally of the report that he carried a message from Emperor William to President Wilson saying there was no foundation for the story.

New York, July 10.—The arrival at an American port of a German submarine and the possibility of establishing a carrier service between the United States and the blockaded Teutonic nations has aroused particular interest here among persons who have suffered from their inability to send to Germany and Austria-Hungary money and legal documents. It was said today that if the submarine returns home she will carry an important consignment of bank drafts and legal papers of various kinds.

Ordinarily $150,000,000 a year is sent from this country to Austria-Hungary but with the war this fell off to $15,000,000.

The settlement of at least of dozen estates now in the surrogate court here has been held up because it was impossible to send or receive the necessary legal documents to or from the cities of the Central Powers. Mortgages have been foreclosed because it

DESCRIPTION OF DEUTSCHLAND

Baltimore, Md., July 10.—Described by Dr. John C. Travers, assistant health officer, who was taken through the boat by Captain Konig, the Deutschland's interior appears to be mainly a mass of machinery. She has but one deck below and a 17 foot depth of hold for her cargo. Dr. Travers descended through the forward hatch where he found the crew quarters, bunks on either side of a narrow passage way leading to compartments occupied by the captain and his two officers. The captain's room is scarcely six feet square and barely high enough for a man to stand. It is furnished all in metal with the exception of a small oak desk. Directly beneath the officers' quarters is the dynamo which stores electrical energy to drive the vessel when submerged. Next Dr. Travers was taken into the officers' mess room, scarcely larger than the state rooms, with a galley built with all the economy of space of a Pullman dining car kitchen. Aft the mess room about one-third the ship's length from her stern, is the submerging machinery and periscopes.

"I never saw such a mass of machinery in my life," said Dr. Travers. "It was an amazing sight and I doubt if it would mean much except to the engineer who designed it. There seemed to be five thousand different pieces, an inexplicable tangle of burnished copper and glistening steel."

Aft of the submerging machinery were the submarines two powerful Diesel oil engines, which propel her on the surface.

Both in the crew's and officer's quarters were phonographs and stocks of well used discs. Captain Konig told the doctor that while on the surface, the noise of the machinery was almost deafening. When submerged, said the skipper, she moves almost silently and then we enjoy ourselves.

Dr. Travers was permitted to look through one of the periscopes and declared that he could see the surrounding scenery, greatly magnified, with amazing clearness.

"The device was adjustable," he said, "for both long and short distance observation."

Dr. Travers emerged through the coming tower, holding in his hand two loaves of German war bread presented by the captain as a souvenir. Canned meats and fruits were the crew's staple food and with the exception of their loss of weight due to the oily atmosphere in the opinion of the health officer, the crew, to a man, was physically fit.

"I never saw better set up men than these," said the doctor. Both health officers congratulated the submarine's commander on his feat, and remarked that it had been many long months since a ship flying the German merchant flag had arrived in Baltimore.

All of her 315 feet of greenish gray hull was standing well above water as the Deutschland was towed to her dock. It was before 7 o'clock in the morning and rain was falling steadily, but there was a big, eagerly curious crowd waiting. Old water front salts and landmen alike gazed with open-eyed wonder. The big craft appeared like some giant fish of the deep, with two periscopes for eyes. Her main superstructure reached full fifteen feet above the water line. Amidships the coming tower extended still higher and above all towered the major periscope. On the starboard side an emergency periscope was ready in case the other failed. Three hatchways led below decks, one forward, one aft and the main hatchway extending through the coming tower amidships.

Extraordinary precautions have been taken to protect the Deutschland.

As soon as she reached her dock an army of guards drove away all river craft and a huge chain of logs was drawn around her to prevent vessels from approaching within a hundred feet of the ship. On the land side of the dock a high board fence reaching far into the river had been erected. On top of the fence are half a dozen rows of heavy barbed wire and crisscrossed with burlap to shut off all view. No one without a permit was allowed near the entrance to the dock.

"My orders are from my home government," said Captain Konig. "No one can go aboard without authority. I am sorry. I would like the whole world to see."

"PERMANENT PEACE" IS WISH OF PRESIDENT DETROIT ENTERTAINED THE CHIEF EXECUTIVE

Detroit, Mich., July 10.—President Wilson aroused great enthusiasm at the World's Salesmanship Congress today by urging that business men carry justice and fair dealing into the ports of the world, particularly Mexico and thereby establish confidence in American principles. His efforts, he declared, will be to serve all America by serving Mexico herself for her best interests without using force, and not to serve the few "gentlemen" who wish to exploit Mexican possessions.

When the president asked the crowd what it desired at the end of all the present world troubles, it shouted, "Peace" in one voice, and then he added that his wish was "Permanent Peace."

"I hear some men say," he said, "that they want to help Mexico and the way they propose to help her is to overwhelm her with force. That is the wrong way as well as the long way. After fighting them you would have a nation full of justified suspicion. Thus you would not help them. You would shut every door against you. What makes Mexico suspicious is that she thinks we do not want to serve but to possess her. And she has justification for these suspicions in the way some gentlemen have sought to exploit her possessions." (Continued On Page Eight)

RECEPTION FOR THE PRESIDENT

Toledo, O., July 10.—A public reception will be tendered President Wilson this afternoon at 4:30. The president will stop here fifteen minutes on his return from Detroit to Washington. The reception, which will be informal, will be at the Union Station while the president's train is being switched from the Michigan Central to the Pennsylvania railroad.

The various units entrained today for their home stations. The regiment was called out for the purpose of transferring members to the second infantry in order to bring the latter command up to a war strength for service on the Mexican border.

MURDER MYSTERY

Cleveland, July 10.—Police and Coroner Byrne had a probable murder mystery on their hands today, following the finding in the lake of a body of an unidentified man, to whose waist a 30 pound rock had been attached by a wire. A dagger which was found attached to the wire and a small wound in the body just over the heart, led police to believe the man was murdered. The man weighed about 140 pounds, was about 30 years old, of medium height and had dark hair. The body was nude and had evidently been in the water a week. Police believe the man was slain somewhere within the city, his body stripped of marks of identification and then taken to the lake, weighted and thrown in.

CAPTURE THIRD POSITION OF STUBBORN GERMANS, ARMY MOVED FORWARD LIKE WELL OILED MACHINE

Berlin, July 10. (Via London).—The Germans have checked the Russian forces which were advancing in Volhynia in the direction of Kovel, the war office announced today. The Russian troops moving towards the Stokhod lines were everywhere repulsed.

(Bulletin)

Berlin, July 10.—(Via London).—The recapture of Trones wood, La Mazonette farm and the village of Barleaux by German troops was announced today by the war office in its report on operations along the western front.

Paris, July 10.—The French have advanced their line south of the Somme a mile and a half, capturing the German third position along a length of three and one-half miles and are now within a mile of Peronne. French critics believe that the capture of Peronne now is a question almost of hours.

Under the systems of interlocking echelons it was the turn of right wing to push forward, the other echelons on the center and left being saved to effect the movement required of them. The troops south of the Somme apparently had made good use of their breathing spell. When the word was given they moved forward with the precision of a well oiled machine. They swept across the northern of the two plateaus which face Peronne, clearing out the German positions and establishing themselves solidly in the trenches, which had been turned into quagmires by the combined effects of bombardment and incessant rain. The Germans offered the best resistance they could, but the French artillery has been keeping up a formidable drum fire upon their lines of communication making it almost impossible for them to get either reinforcements or food in suitable quantities.

CORN CROP WILL SUFFER IF RAIN DOESN'T COME SOON

Unless there is a good drizzling rain within the next week or so, Scioto county farmers, will suffer considerable loss upon their crops, according to reports received Monday from different sections of the county. The corn crop has not been materially injured yet but unless it rains before long there will be much damage. The wheat, although somewhat below the average yield of last year is of good quality. In the eastern part of the county garden truck is withering for the want of water. "Corn is in need of rain," says W. O. Feurt, Scioto Trail. "It is good weather for hay and wheat harvest. When this year is somewhat short of the average yield. The corn crop will be badly damaged unless we have rain shortly. It is damaged somewhat now." "There is right smart damage in our section," said Frank Call, Dogwood Ridge. "Everything is in need of rain. The garden truck and watermelons are dying." Wheat will run about 10 bushels to the acre and from present prospects is of good quality. The corn crop will be about 80 per cent of the average. Corn in the bottoms is not damaged as yet for the want of rain but the crops on the hill are suffering. Poor wheat crop means a poor corn crop is an old maxim. The corn crop will be greatly damaged unless it rains within the next week or so. The corn crop here has not been damaged by the dry weather yet but will be damaged considerably unless it rains, said D. M. Stockham, Buena Vista. The oats are good. Garden truck is fair and wheat poor.

COMPLIMENTS N. & W. MEN

The following fine, and deserved compliment to the men of the N. & W. was paid by George Land, traffic manager of the Lamb-Fish Lumber Co., of Charleston, Miss., in an article in the Manufacturers' Record:

"It is our belief that the railroads are not hampered so much by lack of motive power and equipment as they are by competent men. If any one will review the operations of the Norfolk & Western, as described in a recent issue of the Railway Age Gazette, and compare this operation with any number of others, I believe the conclusion will be reached that the Norfolk & Western has been developed into a magnificent piece of railroad property not through any advantage in geographical location, but solely through the efforts of the men in charge."

Lavalliere Is Found In Pigeon's
Nest In Old Church Tower

While razing the old tower on the First Presbyterian church, Court and Third streets Saturday afternoon, George Hughes, carpenter in the employ of Clarus Wood, contractor in charge of the work, found a solid gold lavalliere set with a blue stone entwined in a pigeon's nest. Mr. Hughes took the lavalliere home and presented it to his wife.

Evidently the sparkling flashes of the lavalliere was noticed by a pigeon while gathering material for a nest and was carried to the tower and there ingeniously woven into the nest.

The finding of the lavalliere rivals the well known poem: "Justice Is Blind," in which a pearl necklace was lost by a woman and a young char woman was arrested, tried, convicted and executed for the theft of the necklace. Later during an electrical storm the scales held by a large bronze statue of justice was smashed and the necklace was found entwined in the nest of a pigeon.

The contractor is erecting a new tower to replace the old one.

TRY TO CHECK SPREAD OF INFANTILE PARALYSIS

Washington, July 10.—A meeting of the general board of the United States Public Health Service was called for today to consider means of promoting interstate co-operation in fighting infantile paralysis. Dr. Wm. C. Rucker, assistant surgeon general, recommended that each person suspected of being a carrier of the disease be placed under observation, and that all railway passengers leaving New York where there is an epidemic of the disease, be thoroughly cleaned. The general board is expected to recommend a system whereby state or local health authorities can be notified of the destination of travelers who have been exposed.

(Bulletin)

New York, July 10.—Rain and colder weather failed today to materially check the epidemic of infantile paralysis, which since its inception two weeks ago, has claimed 238 lives in New York City. During the 24 hours which ended at 10 o'clock this morning, fourteen deaths and 103 new cases were reported. Thirty of the new cases were in Manhattan, the largest number yet reported there in a single day.

New York, July 10.—Five city departments united today in a campaign to keep the city of New York clean in order to check the epidemic of infantile paralysis. Hereafter during the prevalence of the disease, four million gallons of water will be used nightly in flushing the city streets.

The street cleaning department has been instructed to accelerate the removal of garbage, ashes and refuse thrown into the street in the congested districts and the mayor announced today he has directed the police department to arrest householders and storekeepers who indulge in this practice. The tenement house commissioner has been instructed to compel tenants to clean up the halls, stairways, cellars and yards throughout the city. In Brooklyn, where the epidemic has been more severe, the work of flushing the streets at night, will be more than doubled.

Columbus, July 10.—The state board of health has made arrangements whereby it will be notified by Health Commissioner Haven Emerson of New York of any exposure of Ohioans to infantile paralysis in that city.

Thus far Ohio health officials have received no such notification. The United States Public Health Service authorities similarly will inform the state board here of exposure of Ohio children to the disease in other eastern cities.

Until their return to Ohio they will be placed under quarantine until the danger period is passed. The situation in Ohio at this time still is less serious than at corresponding times in other years. The state last year had 466 cases, of which 80 were fatal. Each year the disease is more prevalent in July, August and September than in other months. For this reason an increase in the number of cases is expected for this month, according to James E. Bauman, acting secretary of the state board, and yet it will not be viewed as an epidemic unless the number exceeds considerably the normal.

Petrograd, July 10.—(Via London)—The Russian hospital ship Vperiode, the sinking of which in the Black Sea with the loss of seven lives, was officially announced today, was proceeding without escort from Batoum to embark wounded soldiers. The Vperiode was one of 858 tons and was constructed in 1898 with accommodations for 120 wounded. The official Russian statement said the Vperiode was sunk by an "Enemy submarine without warning."

Public Utilities Commission Holds That Rates Are Illegal; L. Taylor and Sons Sustained

County Clerk John W. Hall received a ruling from the Public Utilities Commission, Columbus, in which the contentions of Lafayette and V. S. Taylor, operating under the firm of L. Taylor and Sons, Radon, are sustained against the Norfolk and Western railway and the Pennsylvania railroad.

The complaint was filed by the complainants several months ago, following a charge of one and a half cents per hundred pounds above the regular rates allowed by the commission on wooden ties between Radon and Youngstown.

The document contends that during the months of April, May and June, 1913, the complainants shipped 583,460 pounds of wooden ties to the Youngstown Sheet and Tubing company, Youngstown, and that the transportation charges were 11 1-2 cents per hundred pounds. These charges, the petition avers, were illegal, as a rate of ten cents had been established by the commission. Judgment for $87.64 is asked. The commission sustains the claims of L. Taylor and Sons.

OHIO RIVER HAS CLAIMED FIRST VICTIM OF SEASON

John Humphreys, Aged 11, Met Death Near Dykes, Body Found By Father, Two Boys Rescued

In what almost proved to be a quadruple drowning, John W. Humphreys, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Humphreys, 1228 Franklin avenue, lost his life while bathing in the Ohio river late Saturday afternoon. This is the first victim of the bathing season. The drowning occurred in a deep hole about a half mile above the government dykes. Sunday morning the body of the unfortunate lad was recovered by the father near the place where it was last seen. It was taken to the Daehler mortuary and prepared for burial.

The drowning was surrounded with scenes of excitement and four lives were nearly lost in the attempt to save one.

The little boy had been sent down street Saturday afternoon by his mother, who gave him instructions to purchase a box of shoe tacks and return home. Instead of doing this, he went to the Juy Kellison home, 1111 Fourth street, to play with the two Kellison boys.

When Mr. Kellison returned in the afternoon the lad urged him to take them to the river for a swim. About four o'clock Mr. Kellison and sons, John, 10, and Lewis, 6, and John Humphreys started for the dykes.

They selected a sandy stretch of bar, which was about midway between two sand dredges and disrobed. After romping and playing with the boys for several minutes, Mr. Kellison says he returned to the shore, dressed and was preparing to call the boys in, when Lewis Kellison, 6, who had become detached from the others, stumbled into some deep water and began to struggle.

His frantic cries of distress took the attention of his father, and before Mr. Kellison was aware of it, he says, all of them were fighting for their lives in one of the deep holes scooped out by the sand dredges. He says he succeeded in getting hold of all three boys, but their strenuous efforts to keep their heads above the surface of the water, broke his grip.

He then seized Lewis Kellison by the hair and swam out and handed him to Earl Davis and a companion, who having seen the predicament of the party, were coming to assist. He then returned and caught John Kellison just as he was sinking, and returned to the shore.

He plunged into the water for the third time and was making for the Humphreys boy, whose struggles were becoming weaker each moment, when he was suddenly seized with a fit of exhaustion. Earl Davis, who was standing nearby, assisted in rescuing the second Kellison boy. By this time John Humphreys had disappeared.

"It was a sad thing," said Mr. Kellison, Sunday. "I had just come out and was dressed when the little one, who was playing in about a foot of water, got below John and the Humphreys boy. He had drifted down with the current. Then he began to struggle and we all ran right into the hole."

"I held all three, but they tore loose when they kicked and I grabbed the little one and started for the bank. I passed him to Earl Davis and a companion and went back. I grabbed another, which was John Kellison, and took him out and I went back after the other one and Davis had to get me out. You know I had my clothes on and my shoes were heavy."

"We then got a boat from the lower sand dredge and poled for him until about eight o'clock and then gave it up."

The boy's father assisted in the search until dark Saturday and then returned home. Early Sunday morning

He is survived by his parents and the following brothers and sisters: Roy X., Ethel, V. R., Katherine M., Mary E. and Anna L.

ing, in company with V. J. Gaus, brother-in-law, he returned, secured a skiff and made a diligent search. After hours of fruitless effort the father discovered the body near the same place it had disappeared. He fastened a spike pole upon the corpse and brought it to the surface.

Coroner J. W. Daehler was called and after viewing the remains stated that the boy had met his death by accidental drowning. The body was then removed to the undertaking establishment.

BE CHEERFUL.
We all ought to be as cheerful as we can. Every one must have felt that a cheerful friend is like a sunny day, shedding brightness on all around, and most of us, if we choose, make of the world a palace or a prison. To be bright and cheerful often requires an effort, but the effort is well worth the making and will amply repay those who succeed in making it a success.—Avesbury.

Base Insult.
"Why is the very stout lady so angry?"
"Because when she wanted to go upstairs in the hotel they told her the freight elevator was on the other side."—Baltimore American.

NEW YORK STOCKS

New York, July 10.—Liquidation and aggressive short selling of the more speculative issues, notably those related to the war group, was resumed today with sufficient persistence to affect the general list.

The irregular tendency that characterized much of last week's trading was observed at the outset of today's operations. Specialties were again singled out for pressure, notably Industrial Alcohol, Mexican Petroleum, Marine Preferred and some munitions and metals, particularly zinc issues. Declines in this group soon ranged from 1 to 3 points. Motors and similar equipments fell away more moderately and U. S. Steel yielded a fraction with a full point for Crucible. Rails were dull with some heaviness in Canadian Pacific. Reading and Seaboard Airline preferred.

Persistent selling of alcohol which made an extreme decline of 7 1/2 points to 121, the lowest price of the year, was accompanied by further recessions, in other war and semi-war issues during the forenoon. There were occasional feeble rallies but the undertone continued heavy. Another sharp break in the price of bar silver was without appreciable effect on stocks most concerned. Rails held surprisingly steady in the face of additional large imports of American securities from London, suggesting a renewal of foreign liquidation. Bonds were irregular in sympathy with the stock list.

Alcohol fell to 107 1/2 in the final hour, with a severe break in Tennessee copper. Elsewhere prices slumped again on the rise in call money to 5 1/2. The closing was heavy.

CHINA TABLETS

The clay tablets of Chaldees, probably the very earliest writing materials used by man, were of different sizes, the largest being flat and measuring 9 by 6 1/2 inches, while the smallest were slightly convex and in some cases not more than an inch long. In the same ruins with the tablets have been found the glass lenses which were used by their makers. The writing was done while the tablets were still soft by a little iron tracer, not pointed, but triangular at the end. The tablets, having been inscribed on both sides and accurately numbered, were baked in ovens and stored away in the state libraries.

ALUMINUM

While experimenting with the intense heat of the electric arc Sir Humphry Davy discovered a metallic substance to which he gave the name of aluminum, though he never succeeded in isolating it. Twenty years later Frederick Wohler in Germany isolated this metal through the use of potassium. In 1846 he obtained it in small malleable globules. In 1808 Davy, a French chemist patronized by Louis Napoleon, improved Wohler's process and isolated aluminum in a state almost pure. At this time the metal was valued at $90 a pound. It was produced in chemical laboratories and used largely

The subject drew many interested ones who were anxious to hear Rev. Bridwell's sermon on the unusual subject. The pastor pointed out that the common mistake being made by most everybody and not only New Boston people was the putting off of preparing for the Kingdom of Heaven. Odd Superstitions.
In England there is a superstition that if a bride and groom eat perl-winkle leaves together they will love one another. Should he after marriage prove recalcitrant here is a way to win him back: Take a piece of the root of a wallflower and a partridge's heart, roll them into a ball and make the man eat it. If you want to know whether your lover loves you crush some bleeding heart. If the juice is red he does, but if it is white he does not.—London Globe.

On The Water Wagon for Balance of My Days

"I Thank God That I Went To The Neal Institute Before It Was Too Late."

"I am still on the water wagon and expect to remain there the balance of my days. I thank God that I went to the Neal Institute before it was too late."

Such was the substance of a letter sent by an Akron man, who was saved from the health-destroying bondage of drink at the Neal Institute. Just a few words, but they were direct to the point and carried as much evidence of sincere appreciation as could be crowded into a couple of pages.

This man's letter might almost be called a written prayer. Many others are giving thanks because the administration of the Neal Treatment they were saved from the sure returns on the investment made by every man who drinks "dividends" in the shape of wrecked health, lost business, vanished happiness and misery of mind and body. Old John Barclay, always collects and Death and Disease are the twins who trail behind. No matter how long that craving appetite has called you to take "just another drink" to quiet your nerves, you can break with the habit by taking the Neal Treatment. In three days this harmless vegetable remedy, taken wholly by mouth, changes desire for drink into intense dislike of everything alcoholic.

about the Deutschland are assigned, said:

"I was told about the submarine about a month ago but in a most mysterious way. Word was passed along from mouth to mouth and even now I could not tell you from whom I got my information. I knew, however, that if any dyes were shipped, I should get some of them. We have had orders for dye supplies in Germany ever since the war began and have had our money there to pay for them. "As to the value of the cargo I could not say. The value of the dyes depends on how highly concentrated they are and it is likely that they are in a very highly concentrated form. I would guess that one pound of the dyes in the submarine would be equal to two pounds of the standardized dyes."

Upon the estimate of Mr. Mattheusson it seems that the dyes aboard the submarine are worth between $4,000 and $6,000 a ton.

Baltimore, Md., July 10.—Definite announcement that the great German submarine merchantman Deutschland which reached Chesapeake Bay yesterday, is the first

More Submarines Coming

"This is not the only one that is coming," said the captain. "Just wait. There will be more here soon, and we are going back for another cargo. We are going to have a regular line."

It was to port officials that the captain talked, as his vessel was preparing to move to dock from the lower harbor, where she dropped anchor at 11 o'clock last night at the end of her memorable voyage across the Atlantic through lanes of vigilant enemy warships.

Master Laughed Over His Feat

He spoke freely to the officers, and laughed over his feat. Newspapermen asked questions over the ship's side. He was not so communicative, explaining that a formal statement would be issued later by the representatives of the owners.

All during the night a considerable part of the Deutschland's crew had been astir and a small searchlight played almost constantly upon a newspaper yacht anchored nearby. The tug, Thomas F. Timmons, conveying the submarine, also kept the yacht under close surveillance.

Had Clean Bill of Health

Shortly after four o'clock when daylight was beginning to show faintly through heavy low lying clouds and a steady drizzling rain, a boat with health and customs officers aboard put out from the quarantine station and went alongside the submarine. To the municipal health officer, Dr. Thomas L. Richardson, the skipper, presented his bill of health, issued to him by William Thomas Fee, United States consul at Bremen on June 14.

Gross Tonnage of Sub 791 Tons

The document describes the Deutschland as "a vessel engaged in the freight trade between Bremen and Boston or other eastern Atlantic ports." It records her gross tonnage as 791, says she is "newly built" has a cargo of dye stuffs in good condition, and a wholesome supply of water from the Bremen water works. "One thing the boarding officers noted particularly—there were no torpedo tubes or guns of any description visible aboard the vessel. They had been told that she had mounted two small caliber rifles for defense, but came ashore convinced that the visitor was wholly unarmored."

Dyestuffs Composed Cargo

It was learned that the boat left Bremen with her load of about 750 tons of valuable dye stuffs which her owners hope to sell to American manufacturers for a fortune. At Helgoland she went ashore, leaving there June 23 to plough deep beneath the surface of the North Sea to escape the watchful eyes of the Allied blockaders. Captain Konig intimated that the purpose of his long delay at Helgoland was to deceive the enemy who undoubtedly had heard rumors of the submarine's coming with a broad smile. This accounted for the belief in the United States that the vessel was a week overdue, a misapprehension that caused German embassy officials to fear that she had run into allied warships or fallen victim to an Atlantic storm. Once outside the blockading lines and into the Atlantic, according to the captain's story, he headed straight across and only deviated from his course once when he saw what he thought was an enemy war craft. Most of the time he sped along on the surface. Submerged he could go at the rate of 7½ knots.

Greeted By the Tug Timmons

Approaching the capes late Saturday, Captain Konig found his path apparently clear. He laid to with his decks awash, however, waiting until darkness fell before nearing the coast. As the bright half moon went down, shortly after midnight, he put on all speed and shot between the Virginia Capes, to be greeted by the tug Timmons sent there more than a week before to await his coming.

Submarine Carried Small Crew

On board the submarine are the captain, first and second officers and 26 men, all wearing the regulation uniforms of the German mercantile marine, with the North German Lloyd insignia upon their caps. The skipper is a trim, slightly built man of medium height, around forty years of age. Two of his seamen are grizzled old tars, but all the rest are youths apparently ranging from 18 to 23.

Sub Cheered By Waiting Craft

When the sub was released from quarantine, she moved up the river to the pier of the Eastern Forwarding Company six miles away, to a carefully guarded waiting berth. On the way up she passed a dozen merchantmen lying at anchor. The first, a big Norwegian freighter, dipped her flag and her whole ship's company lined against the rail gave three rousing cheers, which were answered with a will. With another Norwegian and two Dutch ships the submarine exchanged formal salutes. She moved close by a number of British tramps in silence observed with eager interest by the English crews.

Capt. Konig Posed For Picture

At the dock the boat had hardly been tied before an army of newspaper men and moving picture photographers stormed the place. They were not permitted to get near the Deutschland, protected by a barbed wire stockade and numerous guards, but Captain Konig soon appeared on the shore and cheerfully posed before the cameras.

Captain Speaks Good English

"Better hurry up, I have not had any breakfast yet and don't look good," he remarked in excellent English, with only the slightest trace of a Teutonic accent. He stood smilingly in the rain, wearing blue flannel trousers stuffed into leather sea boots, a dark gray leather coat, gauntlets and a jaunty set cap. When the photographers gave him a rest he held a sort of impromptu reception, shaking hands with everybody and telling how glad he was to be in an American port.

Later he was persuaded to bring out his crew. The German youngsters brought with them a large green beard taken from the stern of the ship on which was painted in big silver letters, "Deutschland-Breme."

Grouped about the board, with their skipper in the center the sailors posed until Captain Konig said it was time to eat. A force of longshoremen was ready on the dock to begin unloading the cargo which is to be shipped as soon as possible by the Eastern Forwarding company to the purchasers, the New York Chemical company.

Will Take Back Rubber and Nickel

Probably a day or two will be required to discharge, then the submarine will take on the crude rubber and nickel consignments already stored in the pier warehouse for her return trip. When the start back across the Atlantic will be of course is problematical.

An official of the Forwarding company said today it might be two weeks or it might be a month but it was not denied that no advance notice would be given and that the vessel would make her way out of the capes whenever and however the opportunity might offer to elude the enemy patrols which undoubtedly will be scouring the Virginia coast waiting for her to appear.

Captain Konig went about his preparations for entering at the custom house without hurry or unusual formality just as though his boat were an ordinary freighter. He did not seem to be worried over reports that the American authorities would carefully investigate his case to determine whether the Deutschland should be rated other than ordinary commerce carriers. The story that the Lake Torpedo Boat company was preparing to libel the submarine on the ground that her construction infringed on its patent apparently did not interest him.

Submarine Was Unarmed

Persons who talked with Captain Konig are authority for the statement that the only arms of any description aboard the Deutschland are four automatic pistols belonging to the officers and a sportsman's rifle used for firing rockets.

Captain Tells About Trip

Baltimore, Md., July 10.—Captain Konig's own story of the Deutschland's voyage across the ocean was told to newspaper correspondents soon after he made public his prepared statement. He laughed at stories of his being chased off his course by enemy vessels, and declared that during the entire trip the vessel traveled submerged only about ninety miles. "I have seen," said the captain, "statements that we were forced to go hundreds of miles out of our course in the Atlantic because of the British warships. That is not so, why should we go out of our course, except to submerge? That is the simplest and most effective way of getting out of our course. Besides it is much easier to submerge."

"We came to Hampton Roads by the straight course from the English channel. We did not come by way of the Azores. Altogether from Heligoland to Baltimore we covered 3,800 miles. Of that distance 90 miles were driven under the surface of the water. The Deutschland is built to stay under water for four consecutive days, so you see we never reached anywhere near our submergence limit on this voyage."

"This ship is much easier to ride than a torpedo boat destroyer; much sturdier. Nothing can happen to her, she is so perfectly built. Of course she rolls a little at times, but that is no hardship."

"We will go back again carrying whatever cargo there is for us to take, and we can go without taking on any oil here. We have enough left to take us home. And I want to say that it will be just as easy to go back as it was to come over. How soon we shall leave I do not know, but we will be ready as soon as we get a cargo."

Captain Konig said that the Deutschland was built for submergence to a depth of 300 feet, but that it was seldom necessary to go more than fifty feet below the surface.

The statement typewritten on the stationery of the Deutsche-Ozean-Rhederei-G. M. B. H., Bremen, announced that the Deutschland was the first of several submarines built for the trans-Atlantic trade and that she would be followed by the Berlin.

Following is the statement: "The submarine Deutschland, which I have the honor to command, is the first of several submarines, built to order of the Deutsche-Ozean-Rhederei-G. M. B. H., Bremen. She will be followed by the Bremen shortly."

"The idea of the building of this submarine emanated from Albert Lohmann, the president of the Bremen Chamber of Commerce. He brought his idea in the fall of last year confidentially before a small circle of friends, and the idea was taken up at once. A company was formed under the name of 'Deutsche-Ozean-Rhederei-G. M. B. H.' and the Germania-Werft, Kiel, was entrusted with the building of the submarine."

"The board of directors is composed of Mr. Alfred Lohmann, president of the board, Mr. Philip Heinke, general manager of the Nord Lloyd; Mr. Kommerzienrat, P. M. Hermann, manager of the Deutsche Bank.

"Mr. Carl Stappelfeldt, manager of the Nord Lloyd has taken over the management of the company."

"We have brought a most valuable cargo of dye-stuffs to our American friends, dye stuffs which have been so much needed for months in America and which the ruler of the seas has not allowed the great American Republic to import. While England will not allow anybody the same right on the ocean, because she rules the waves, we have by means of the submarine commenced to break this rule."

"Great Britain cannot, however, hinder boats such as ours to go and come as we please. Our trip passing Dover across the ocean was an uneventful one. When danger approached we went below the surface and here we are safely in an American port, ready to return in due course."

"I am not in a position to give you full details regarding our trip across the ocean, in view of our enemies. Our boat has a displacement of about 2,000 tons and a speed of more than 14 knots. Needless to say that we are unarmed and only a peaceful merchantman."

"Regarding things in Germany I may mention that there is real but not the least anxiety for the British attempt of trying to kill by starvation a hundred million German and Austrian children and women, and non-combatants, the most devilish plan ever tried by any nation in the world."

Washington, July 10.—The fact that boarding officers found the German merchant submarine Deutschland wholly unarmed goes far toward simplifying any question as to her status as a merchant ship in American water.

Officials realize, however, that the British and French embassies while interested little in what the Deutschland has brought over, are concerned over the cargo of rubber and nickel she proposes to carry back to Germany and expect that nothing will be left undone by Germany's enemies to prevent or hinder her clearance.

Although the fact that the submarine is unarmed is of first importance, such factors as the composition of the crew and actual ownership will have to be established, to determine whether the submarine could be classed as a naval auxiliary. Naval officers, while attracted by the great size of the submarine and her long voyage, consider the fact that she successfully ran the allied blockade attracts them most.

Some of them pointed out that if a successful means of running a blockade had been perfected, one of the most potent measures of warfare had become a thing of the past.

Until the customs officials' report is received Acting Secretary Polk said today that no action was contemplated by the state department.

"We must await the investigation of the treasury department," he said. "Until that is submitted the state department has no information upon which to proceed."

Mr. Polk said that for the time

PRESIDENT WILSON

"I will not serve these gentlemen but I will serve all Americans by trying to serve Mexico herself."

"The way to establish our sovereignty is to respect hers."

The president added that he believed in the old Virginia bill of rights which declared that a country may do as it pleases with its own government.

This information the president said, was for those gentlemen who would "butt in."

The president declared that the merchant marine, which some are "so slow in giving us," will be a great help to the business interests of the United States.

In order to gain foreign business, however, he added, it will be necessary for American business to adopt the goods to the demands of other countries and not try to force their own ideas on other markets. Salesmanship, he said, would go hand in hand with statesmanship after the close of the war.

Great world changes which are now taking place, the president declared will force the United States to take a more active part in world trade in the future.

"These are days of incalculable change," he said. "It is impossible for anybody to predict anything that is certain in detail with regard to the future either of this country or of the world in the large movements of business. One thing is perfectly clear, and that is that the United States will play a new part and that it was a part of unprecedented opportunity and greatly increased responsibility."

"Timidity must be cast aside by those who seek the world trade," he said, "and a knowledge of conditions of business and conditions throughout the round globe will be essential to success."

"No amount of mere push, no amount of mere hustling, or to speak in the western language, no amount of mere rustling, no amount of mere active enterprise will suffice," he declared, and later added, "in the relationship of nations with each other many of our antagonists are based on misunderstandings and as long as you do not understand a country you cannot trade with it."

"Lift up your eyes to the horizons of business," he concluded. "I do not look too closely at the little processes with which you are concerned, but let your thoughts and your imaginations run abroad throughout the whole world, and with inspiration of the thought that you are Americans and are meant to carry liberty and justice and the principles of humanity wherever you go, go out and sell goods that will make the world more comfortable and more happy and convert them to the principles of America."

From the hall the president went to the Detroit Athletic Club, where he held a reception to members of the club. Thousands of persons who were unable to gain admission to the hall stood along the streets outside the club and applauded him when he posed for motion pictures with Governor Ferris, of Michigan, and others.

No more patriotic or enthusiastic demonstration has greeted the president recently than he received here. Thousands of persons lined the streets through which he passed and when he entered the hall, the entire audience arose and waved American flags.

Detroit, Mich., July 10.—President Wilson's party included Mrs. Wilson, Secretary Tamm and Congressman Frank E. Doremus of Michigan.

As the party was driven to the convention hall a cannon thundered the presidential salute. A large crowd at the station welcomed President and Mrs. Wilson. Henry Ford, the manufacturer, sent the president a message expressing confidence he would keep the United States out of war.

President Wilson promised today that he would deliver a platform speech at the union station in Toledo on his way back to Washington.

Although the route of the presidential special was to have been kept secret, crowds were gathered at every station through which it passed last night and today. The president, however, did not appear at any of them and there were no demonstrations.

After speaking at the salesmanship congress, President Wilson was to hold a public reception. This afternoon he is to visit an automobile factory. He will leave for Washington at four p. m.

The first warning of their approach was given last week. The information was sent to the war department and forwarded to Major General Funston.

El Paso, Texas, July 10.—General Matias Ramos, nephew of General Ignacio Ramos, who was killed in the recent Carrizalito fight, is pursuing a Villa band under Calixto Contreras into the mountains of Durango, according to a telegram from General Trevino received today by General Gonzales at Juarez. Ramos has a force of 500 men. The message said the Villa force did not give battle at Las Nieves as expected, but continued the Rio Florida. Villa appeared in Jimenez after its capture of bandits, according to a La Democrata, a Carranzista organ published in Chihuahua.

England Makes Comment

London, July 10.—Much interest has been aroused in England over the arrival of a German submarine at an American port. The news is given much space in the evening newspapers which, however, do not comment upon the happening.

In official circles the greatest interest centers in whether the submarine was armed or carried

Paris, July 10.—The new French drive south of Somme river had been prepared by artillery bombardments for more than two days and the complicated system of German defenses in the loop to the northward made by the river had been disorganized. The task of artillery preparation had been carried through rapidly and the infantry attack probably would have been made sooner had it not been for the bad weather.

Yesterday morning the rain at last stopped and the signal for the assault was given. The French troops began to move along a two and a half mile front. The left wing rested on the bridge over the Somme, one mile east of Sorpoint farm while the right wing lay a little north of Belloy. The left wing and the center crossed the German trenches with a simultaneous bound and proceeded rapidly in the direction of Biaches. This village was attacked from two sides, the north and east at once. The Germans defending it resisted energetically but finding themselves in danger of being surrounded, retreated up the left of the river by the Peronne road. At two o'clock the village was entirely in the hands of the French.

Meanwhile the right wing threw the Germans into disorder and arrived at the outskirts of Barleux, where the German situation now appears to be precarious.

French artillery operations characterizes the capture of Biaches as a brilliant and important operation. Whether the Germans are still holding to the net work of canals or have retreated to the other bank of the Somme, the French position on the last plateau before the Somme and the important point of support afforded by the capture of Biaches give them direct command of the valley immediately above Peronne.

Discover Palace Of The Pharaoh Of Oppression

Philadelphia, July 10.—The Museum of the University of Pennsylvania has made public a report from Dr. Clarence S. Fisher, leader of the Eckley B. Cox, Jr., expedition to Egypt in which he tells of what appears to be the discovery that Meremphthah had in his palace at Memphis, an archeological museum something like those of the present day. Meremphthah was the son of Rameses the Great, and by many is identified as the Pharaoh of the Oppression as described in the book of Exodus.

The palace was discovered early in the present year, the report said. It was large and elaborately decorated, but at some time was destroyed by fire, traces of which are abundant. The palace was about one hundred and eighty feet long and one hundred feet wide and contained about twenty rooms. The throne room was a magnificent chamber of about sixty by forty feet. In describing this room, the museum announcement stated that "it is probable that this throne room, if not the same one, is similar to the one in which Moses and Aaron confronted the Pharaoh demanding that the people of Israel be permitted to go.  the authorities in Egypt admit that a great discovery has been made."

NEW BOSTON CHURCH DEDICATED SUNDAY. OVER $2,000 RAISED

Services that will go down in the history of the church as being the most impressive ever held, marked the dedication exercises held at the Christian church of New Boston Sunday afternoon. The big feature of the day was the completion of plans to raise the debt of the church. The church cost $6,000. About $4,000 of this has been paid already.

Rev. S. H. Bartlett, evangelist from Cleveland, O., should be given credit for raising the money. At the morning, afternoon and evening services, the remaining $2,000 was raised by cash and pledges to be paid in three years. Of this amount $307 is cash. Mayor J. S. Davis gave $100 and John T. Breese $100.

The first service held in the new house of worship, was Sunday school at nine o'clock. There were 206 present, the largest number for some time. These services were followed by short preaching service by Rev. Bartlett. At the close the church debt was explained and called for money. In a short time over $1,000 was raised by cash and pledges. The result of the contribution was most gratifying.

The afternoon services, the dedication exercises, started at 2:30 with the church filled, many standing. A special car from the city brought many from the First Christian and Grandview Avenue Christian churches. The Jr., O. F. A. M. band was brought along by the city church folk and the band furnished the music for the services.

After the congregation had rendered "Onward Christian Soldiers" and "All Hail the Power of Jesus' name," Rev. Charles R. Oakley, of the First Christian church, led in prayer. Rev. Bartlett, evangelist, and former state worker of the Ohio Christian Missionary Society, gave a short sermon on "The Life of Paul." He told of Paul's letter to the Romans, of Paul's service to Christ and his many hard fought battles and victories and how in the end he had won. "The only way to be free is to be a slave. We get freedom through the bondage of sacrifice."

He told of Paul's different journeys and how he met each crisis. His talk, though short, was interesting and helpful.

Rev. Bartlett then told of the church debt and the success of the morning collection. The cornerstone of the new church was laid in September, 1913, several months after the old church was destroyed by fire. Not once but several times work was started and in a few weeks stopped when the money would give out. In February steps were taken to complete the building and last week the finishing touches were put on.

Rev. E. G. Hamilton led in prayer and then Rev. Bartlett called forward the pastors of the city churches, the deacons and trustees of the church and sent them among the congregation to raise the remaining $1,000.

Over $500 was raised before the final report was made and Rev. Bartlett ordered a halt. The members and different classes of the city churches made a splendid contribution.

The evening service started at 7:30 o'clock, the church being well filled, despite the hot weather. Rev. Bartlett told of the success of the morning and afternoon sessions and made another appeal for funds. In a short time the necessary $300 was raised. The remainder of the evening was given over to a short sermon.

Arrangements have been made to have Rev. Bartlett hold a three week revival at the new church. Services will start at 8 o'clock each evening. Before Rev. Bartlett leaves the church expects to call a pastor.

LAWRENCE COUNTY VISITED BY STORM

Ironton, July 10.—A terrific thunder and rain storm swept over the western end of Lawrence county Saturday, doing much damage to crops, but so far nothing more serious has been reported, although several

SUNDAY SCHOOL ATTENDANCE

The Bible school attendance took a slight jump Sunday, despite the hot weather, which has been cutting the attendance down each Sunday for the last few months.

Sunday there was an increase of 623. The total was 4705, while one week ago it was down to 4082, the lowest mark in sometime. Three schools had over 500 present Sunday. Trinity going into first place, and Christian dropping back into second. Many fell below the 500 mark. The smaller schools are holding up well in their attendance. Sunday's record:

ST. MONICA PARISH SHOWS SPLENDID GROWTH; WHAT HAS BEEN ACCOMPLISHED IN 9 MONTHS

St. Monica's parish of New Boston has just issued another bulletin showing its financial condition at the present time and giving the names of the various contributors.

The parish is now nine months old and has enjoyed such a splendid growth that it is planned to begin building in the spring of 1917. A combination church and school will probably be erected and it is hoped to raise $10,000 for that purpose.

An opportunity for buying a suitable place for the church did not present itself till April 11. Then Burke Lawson sold his property to Messrs. John Flood and John Simpson. From the latter four lots were bought, comprising a strip of ground seventy feet wide and two hundred and forty feet long. Seventy feet frontage is given on Gallin and Pine streets and the 240 on Lakeview. The price was thirty-six hundred dollars. The sellers must pay the street paving assessment on Gallin, grade the lots and lay the sidewalks. It was necessary to borrow $1125 to pay for the lots. Of this loan, all except four hundred dollars has been paid. This balance of debt will be taken care of by the outstanding subscriptions. All other moneys received will then go into the building fund. The lots are now being graded. They are nearly central and above all danger of flood. Money for the new parish has been gotten by extraordinary means. Rt. Rev. Bishop J. J. Hartley, Bishop of Columbus, consented to let the collection taken up in January for the Poor Missions of the diocese to be handed over to St. Monica's church. This added $64 to the fund. The Catholic girls who had a Leap Year dance gave half their surplus funds to the cause. The amount was five dollars. A bulletin showing its financial condition at the present time and giving the names of the various contributors. Local Delegations Will Attend W. P. P. A. Installation In Ironton

A Lawrence county branch of the W. P. P. A. has been formed at Ironton as a result of the tabernacle campaign that has been carried on for the past three weeks by the Edwardes of this city. At the men's

Terrific Hitting Of Spencer Men Featured; Dilts Made Six Hits

MAYSVILLE, Ky., July 10.—The Cobblers downed the Burley Cubs yesterday afternoon by an overwhelming score of 18 to 6. It was a sloppy played game on the part of the locals. Ferguson and Simms worked for the visitors, while French and Skinner did the twirling for the locals, and were hammered all over the lot. The feature of the game was the heavy hitting of the Cobblers.

Lexington, Ky., July 10.—A meeting of citizens interested in baseball has been called for Monday for the purpose of raising money to keep the Ohio State League franchise in Lexington and maintaining a team here for the remainder of the season. It is stated that approximately $2,500 will be needed. It is asserted that the franchise has not been sold to Huntington, but that Huntington has been told that it may have it and the local team if Lexington quits the league.

President Gableman stated Monday that so far as he knew the second half would begin with four clubs, Portsmouth, Chillicothe, Huntington and Maysville.

Number Plan Is Popular

Indianapolis, July 10.—J. C. McGill, owner of the Indianapolis club of the American Association, thinks so well of the Cleveland American club plan of numbering the players, that he is considering adopting the plan himself.

If he does, he probably will be following the same plan as with the Cleveland team, placing the numbers on the sleeves of the players, with corresponding numbers placed beside the players' names in the score card.

Beebe Has Made Good

Indianapolis, July 10.—James Dunn, president of the made-over Cleveland American team and also of a construction company, got his idea to sign Fred Beebe, the former major league pitcher and baseball coach at Indiana University, while on a business trip here. An Indianapolis friend told him that Beebe had at least one more season of major league pitching in him and Dunn, being new to the game, listened to the story and acted on the suggestion to sign the Indiana coach. Beebe made good in the first two games.

STATE POLITICAL LETTERS

(By Democratic Press Bureau)

(By Charles E. Morris)

Columbus, O., July 10.—The supreme court of Ohio has entered a ruling upholding Auditor of State, A. V. Donahay in his refusal to pay to Senator C. W. Wickline, of Akron, the $25,000 profit he had arranged for in the auto tag deal with Secretary of State C. W. Hildebrandt.

It will be remembered that the automobile tag contract was let secretly by the secretary of state to the company owned by Wickline, without competitive bid as required by law. Wickline was to receive 10 1/2 cents per pair of tags. He had no factory to make tags but sublet the contract to a New York concern for a cheaper tag at 15 cents. The auditor paid the New York company direct at 15 cents and refused to pay Wickline the 4 1/2 cents rakeoff, which for this year alone amounted to about $12,000. Wickline then brought an action against Donahay in supreme court. Hildebrandt was a witness as was Wickline. The former's testimony was contradicted by an attache of the attorney general's office, and the latter admitted misstatement under oath. On the law and the facts the unanimous finding of the supreme court directly cuts Wickline out of his illegal profit, and holds Hildebrandt up before the people in an unenviable light.

One reason why Republican papers carry so much state administration promotion is because they like so well the two-column kind of dope the administration press bureau sent out for Honest Charlie Hildebrandt to pull his coats out of the fire after the auto tag doise. Maybe, too, that's what caused the scarcity of Democratic candidates for "Hildy's" job.

Friends of the compulsory workmen's compensation law which has been before the supreme court for a ruling do not yet know just what action, if any, need be taken to further safeguard the law against present and future attacks. The ruling of the court leaving pending for further argument two important questions causes hesitation in the matter of comment. The fact that it was the intention of the writers of the present law to give the state a monopoly on the handling of relations between employer and employee, to keep the millions involved in the state as now, and to put a stop to the sending of large sums annually to parent employers' liability companies in Perth, Scotland, and London, England, makes it apparent that the campaign now on will witness much discussion of the matter.

The train of events makes the compensation insurance question one of the big issues. It is certain that the Democratic state platform will contain a ringing resolution for a strengthening rather than a weakening of the law. The fact that one or more organizations may back an amendment for a constitutional guard will draw the lines. Knowledge that the present state administration has been unfructually to the compulsory and state monopoly features of the law, and pre-election alliances, makes the matter an important one.

The action of Roosevelt and the disruption of the Progressive party will in Ohio cause the return of 75,000 Democrats to President Wilson. In the past these admirers of the spectacular could not be held to traditional moorings. With them on their return will come others who will acquiesce in the reactionary turn of affairs at Chicago. An indication of what may be expected here is seen in the statement of Francis J. Heney, famous graft prosecutor, of Los Angeles, who was an ardent member of the Bull Moose party four years ago, and who has now come in the support of President Wilson. Without questioning the personal integrity of former Justice Hughes, Heney says his nomination marks the continued domination of the Republican party by the Penrose-Crane-Barnes group. And that's enough for any Progressive.

Again has the supreme court taken action to prevent Governor Willis from interfering with the management of state institutions. He had demanded the resignation of Mrs. McNamara, matron of the Girls' Industrial Home, then sought to have her pay stopped by order of the civil service commission. The court has ordered the auditor to pay her salary. Willis' objection to Mrs. McNamara was that he wanted her job for some one else.

During the recent legislative session when it became known that State Librarian Galbraith was writing the administration ills, Doctor Hoy, or somebody, named him Charles "Bill" Galbraith. Now since it is told that he is writing most of the governor's political speeches, some wag suggests that it be changed to "Bullwriter."

"Undiluted Americanism" is the kind that rocks the boat by criticism of the president's acts without offering a program as good or better.

It is doubtful if the present governor of Ohio has ever considered the impropriety of talking politics on every occasion at which he is invited to speak. Because of the fact that the office of governor is the highest in the state, it is presumed that considerable of dignity is attached thereto. Then, too, the fact that this office has usually been occupied by able and worthy men, many of whom have risen to higher station, has added importance to the executive chair. It is a matter of respect to the office of governor that invitations are freely extended to the incumbent to grace public meetings of importance. The individual is supposed to exercise common judgment and on occasions non-political common judgment would pronounce against the good taste of campaigning for office.

Governor Willis is a public speaker of no mean ability and because of the fact he is governor of Ohio is frequently sought after. Because he is a candidate he also seeks after occasions to speak. He has spent more than a half of his time since June, 1915, when the legislature adjourned, making speeches while seeking political preferment, first as a candidate for president, then as a candidate for vice-president, finally as a candidate for delegate, and now as a candidate for re-election. He has been invited to church reunions, school anniversaries and celebrations, at most of which political discussion was offensive. At none of these meetings has he omitted to discuss his "modest aspirations."

Professor W. W. Black, head of the department of education, of Indiana, has been spending some time in Ohio, studying the operation of the Ohio school code. His purpose is to make a report to the state of Indiana with a view to having the code adopted there.

Ordinarily there might not be any special meaning in such a visit. But at this time there is a very great meaning in it, because of the opposition to the school code when it was proposed and being considered by the legislature, and the fact that educators in other states are coming to understand that we have the best school code any state in the Union has.

Prior to the enactment of the present law, under the administration of Governor Cox, Ohio stood second to the last in the list of states in regard to educational matters. The then governor predicted that the passage of the measure would raise the state to the top of the list in a few years. So it is significant to find Ohio occupying first place in less than three years. But the real significance comes from the fact that the passage of this law which has put Ohio in the first rank, was the contributing cause of the defeat of the man who put it through the legislature.

The close of the first fiscal year of the Willis administration will see a treasury balance of approximately seven millions, about one million and a half dollars less than at the end of the last fiscal year of the Cox administration, when Willis in his campaign charged there was a treasury deficit. Another significant parallel is in the fact that Cox's last fiscal year showed that he had earned three million dollars more than he had spent, whereas for the first time in years the Willis administration has spent that sum more than it has received.

The state insurance fund has a balance of nearly four million dollars, notwithstanding the strenuous efforts that were made to amend the law of workmen's compensation in compliance with campaign promises. The stability of this fund is established, and the strength of the law is shown. The workmen's compensation statute is so well planned that even in the hands of enemies its effectiveness cannot be destroyed.

An effort to form a slate of opposition to those candidates in Ohio who are staunch in support of President Wilson is being made in the same circles that bolted the Democratic party ticket in 1914. The moves centers around a candidate for the nomination for United States senator, who two years ago stumped against the candidate who defeated him fairly in the primary election. Other candidates with or without consent of candidates, are being involved. Neither United States Senator Pomeroy nor any other candidate whose interests are affected need have any fear of such actions. This is a year when no man can hope for a hearing who dares to raise his voice against the president, who, placed in office as the leader of the Democratic party, is now and must be the leader of all the American people.

OLD FOLKS FIND CHEERY FRIEND

A Boon to Those Who Have Started Down the Hill of Life

Are we paying all the attention to the comforts of our old folks who are treading in the long shadows of life, that they justly deserve?

When they complain of not feeling well, don't we too often pass lightly over their condition, believing that their ills are due entirely to old age, which man cannot overcome. One should realize that elderly people are more susceptible to sluggishness of the organs than younger people, who, daily exercising, have the advantage of healthful outdoor life.

The trouble with most elderly people is that they let debility sup away their vitality. A condition of debility never wears itself out. Instead it gradually grows more pronounced unless proper methods to check it are taken. It gathers force and nourishes itself upon the tissues of the body. To build up these tissues is to fight debility.

So many of us have been seeking some really efficient remedy to give our old folks. That remedy must contain the proper tonic qualities to revitalize sluggish organs and blood.

It is not a courageous thing to let debility sap away the life and comforts of our old folks when it can be stayed. Tanlac, the new reconstructive tonic and invigorant, has been a boon to the aged. Characteristic conditions of debility both in old and young are nervousness, headaches, depression of spirits, loss of appetite, pains in the stomach, back and limbs, sleeplessness and a general run-down good-for-nothing feeling that comes from lack of energy.

Tanlac is designed to combat these conditions in many ways. It is a splendid tonic and tissue builder with just the correct amount of proteids. It quiets nerves and brings back restful sleep, which is Nature's first aid to the debilitated. It corrects stomach troubles—and there, in nine cases out of ten, you have the seat of a nervous, debilitating ailment.

With the body recharged with vigor that detested, despondent feeling passes away so quickly you are astonished and might regretful that you didn't start out to fight it long before.

Tanlac is being especially introduced in Portsmouth at the Fisher and Streich drug store where the Tanlac Man daily explains its merits and what may be expected from its use.

(By Claude C. Waltemire)

Columbus, O., July 10.—One of the marked strides toward efficiency and economy in the present administration, is to be found in the Industrial Commission. This is one of the departments which has tried to hamper the governor through Cox appointees, but without success.

In the year closing June 30, two new free employment offices have been added to the employment department of the commission, making seven in all. There have been more than 140,000 men and women, skilled and unskilled, placed in positions of permanence. The preceding year this department placed but 62,237 people. This is only a small portion of the good work of this department. Under the present administration, the big Youngstown strike was settled satisfactorily directly through the state administration.

There will be no more "job selling" under this administration. The Industrial Commission has also taken up that matter and bulletins have been issued. The "straw boss" who exacts from $5.00 to $25.00 from a man will be prosecuted.

Another notable piece of efficiency and economy is to be found in the Boiler Inspection department of the Industrial Commission. This department was in a state of chaos when the Republicans came into power. During the first two years of its existence, the figures of the Democratic state auditor, Donahay, show that the department lost $13,000 a year, in round numbers. During the two years of the Cox administration, the affairs were in a shape as to make it impossible to give the figures of the losses. In less than a year's time, the present administration has placed the boiler department on its feet and has made it self-sustaining. The expenses were $35,000 and the receipts $35,477. Since the report was called for, additional receipts have been placed to the credit of the department, and it shows a balance to the good of more than $4,000. This department is growing rapidly and although the work increases daily no more office help has been used.

"I do not know at this time just how it will be done but Ohio will take care of the dependents upon those who have enlisted in the Ohio guard," said Governor Willis, with characteristic emphasis, in speaking of the movement all over Ohio to bring about such a condition of affairs.

Urging enlistment, Governor Willis said: "I am told that the new law gives the boys who belong to the Guard, a leave of absence from the Guard while in the Federal service and that when they return they may choose their own status. There are many young men who want to enlist, but do not want to be bound to the Guard upon their return. Col. Zimmerman interprets the law to mean that they do not have to remain in the organization unless they choose to do so."

Referring to the care of those who have no other means of support than through the men who enlist, the governor made the following statement: "I note with satisfaction and pride the organization in different parts of the state to take care of the soldier's families. There are cases where families are dependent upon those who enlist. Not all can go to the front, but those who remain at home can aid by giving of their means to care for those who need care in the absence of enlisted men."

"It is to be hoped that in every community where men enlist, the people will inquire, in their own way, into the status of these families and see that they are kept from want. This is a matter in which Chamber of Commerce and other organizations should take an active part. It should be done before the men leave their state, so that they may go away free from this care. What has been done already is commendable and will bring comfort to thousands. Let us all do our share in bearing the burden at this time."

Emery Lattanner, whose conduct as state bank examiner, is now under investigation, was a Cox appointee.

What would the Democratic papers be saying now, if, under Governor Willis, the liquidation of defunct banks were being used to pay political debts to a host of lawyers?

They didn't say anything under the Cox administration.

Labor is very well satisfied with the administration of the Workman's Compensation Law under Governor Willis.

"Ohio will find a way to take care of the families of the men who enlist, where such care is necessary."—Governor Willis.

The present administration enforces the Child Labor Law, and the Eight Hour law for women.

The Boiler Inspection department, under the Cox administration, lost money.

It has been placed upon a self-sustaining basis under the present administration.

The Union scale has been adopted and is in operation in the Bindery Department of the Department of Public Printing.

The Portland Oregonian, the biggest independent newspaper on the West coast, has endorsed Hughes for president.

The Industrial Commission's free employment department has placed more than 140,000 men and women in good, steady positions during the year just closed.

The Columbus Saturday Monitor will be The Columbus Daily Monitor next week. It will be a Republican newspaper and the only one in Columbus.

Governor Willis promised efficiency and economy in the conduct of state affairs didn't he? Well, he has made good.

It would be interesting to know just how much of a probe of the Ohio National Guard Mr. James M. Cox would advocate today.

John G. Reilly, Phil M. Streich and J. A. Salmon, leaders in the Progressive party in Southeastern Ohio, have written to Harry E. Taylor, editor of the Portsmouth Times, that they are in line for Hughes and that in their opinion, all other Ohio Progressives are in the "same boat."

The Movies

Anita Stewart and S. Rankin Drew in "The Suspect" Lyric Theatre

Over "The Suspect," the new dramatic masterpiece by H. J. W. Dam, in which Miss Anita Stewart plays the leading role as "Sophie, a Nihilistic spy, the grey shadow of Holy Russia lies like a shadow of impending tragedy, big with drama."

In no photodramatic production dealing with Russia has the grimness of the Arctic Empire been brought out with such power as this great story, which has been transferred from the manuscript to the screen under the masterly direction of S. Rankin Drew, who himself plays one of the leading roles in the photo-play.

This play is of the Vitaphone Blue Ribbon Series, and is a milestone on the path of accomplishment along the way of photoplay improvement.

To miss it would be to miss one of the best pictures ever shown in town at any price. The admission is 10 cents for adults and 5 cents for children.

Lillian Gish in "Sold for Marriage," Columbia Tonight.

The famous forest of Truckee, Cal., is on the cast of characters in the new Triangle Fine Arts film "Sold for Marriage" at the Columbia tonight. It plays the part of a Russian steppe, the early scenes of the picture being laid in the Czar's dominion.

It is said that this American woodland is an almost exact counterpart of the particular locality selected by William E. Wing for his story. Of course a Russian steppe is a sort of plain; and globe trotters say nothing in the world could be more dismal in the way of landscape; so the complaint to Truckee is doubtful. In reality, Truckee is a spot of rare beauty. The dreariness was found here in the angle from which the pictures were taken.

came high up on the Palisades. He is discovered there later and has in flee. Margery is with him at the time, and together they jump over the cliff. He makes his escape and runs to a trolley car which is running along some distance off. Commandeering this, he throws off the motorman and takes charge of the car. It jumps the track as it crosses a bridge and falls into the street below, a twisted, splintered wreck. The detectives, following the Mask-run up, but no trace of his body is found.

Who and where is "The Laughing Mask"? Two good comedies complete the program.

At The Arcana
"A Wife at Bay" is a two part Rex drama, featuring Ben Wilson, Dorothy Phillips, Charles Ogle, William Welsh, Lenore Van Ottinger and Fred Herzog. Frank Lane, retired lawyer, is trusted with important legal papers by his client, a wealthy financier. Lane's wife travels with a fast set and gambles and becomes indebted to the owner of the gambling house. He gets her in his power. He has a friend who is working hard in politics against Lane. He uses Lane's wife as a tool against her husband. She is bribed but her husband hears the plot and causes a raid to be made on the gambling place and the arrest of his enemies. Lane and his wife are reconciled. "When Slim Picked a Favorite" is a Nestor comedy. "A Toyland Robbery" is a Powers comedy.

At The Strand
"The Queen of the Prophets" is the title of chapter 17 of the famous "Graft" series. In this number Robert Hard-ling, impersonated by Richard Stanton, is mayor of the city. The political gangsters, led by Boss Mead and Stanford Stone, attempt to kill him, but Dorothy and another friend come to his aid. The installment is as sensational as previous ones, and carries the interest well. The fall of the platform at the close makes a good feature.

"The Capital Prize" is a two part Rex drama which will be followed by a one part Victor drama entitled "A Strange Confession". The concluding reel is "Never Lie to Your Wife", a Nestor comedy.

At The Temple
Chapter thirteen of "The Iron Claw", shown today, is entitled "The Hidden Face", which brings us to an interesting point in the story of "The Iron Claw" serial, where Margery Golden learns, with great joy, the identity of the Laughing Mask, while we are still left guessing, firmly believing, however, that we also have the question solved. Margery is again called upon to hide this mysterious personage, this time in her own apartments. This is an intensely interesting number. Three good comedies complete today's feature bill.

Telling the Difference.
"No, sir; not a penny!" was the reply of young Ardop's opponent but movable relative. "I've lent you more money already than you will ever pay back. You can shift for yourself henceforth. The difference between us is that I am provident and you are improvident."

"The difference between us," vehemently retorted young Ardop, with his hand on the doorknob, "is that I'm a man of moderate means and you're a man of immoderate meanness!" Then he fled.—Pittsburgh Telegraph.

most welcome, advice.

Dear Dolly, for some time I have been trying to get up courage enough to write to you, for I know as well as anything that you are very liberal with your advice, not only to me but also to others.

Hoping, dear Dolly, that you will be only too glad to distribute to me your advice.

Still hoping, dear Dolly, that sometime in the far away future that I will be able to help you in your needings moments, as well as in your happy, I remain,

W. W.
P. S. Dear Dolly: Who is the girl that takes care of the telephone exchange at the Excelsior Shoe factory?

CUPID.

The girl probably enjoyed your company very much but perhaps is a little bashful about saying so. If she did not enjoy being with you she would not doubt refuse to let you come to see her. Continue to be friendly and you might ask her to accompany you to some sort of entertainment as the "movies." I am sure she appreciates your thoughtfulness of her and I think you should get along very well and have jolly good times. Miss Sue Davis is in charge of the telephone exchange at the Excelsior.

Dear Miss Wise—As I am a young man I am coming to you for advice. I am about 22 years old and never had a steady girl friend. When I go down town I see my friends going with nice girls but they never introduce me to them. They just speak and that's all. Now I am a nice boy with good manners and a good character, and I surely would like to get acquainted with some nice girl. I am a good worker, dress nice and hold a good position at the steel plant. I could show some good girl a nice time but I cannot get acquainted. Will you please tell me how I can get acquainted with some nice girl? I hope you will give me an answer as soon as you can. I remain your friend,

A STEEL WORKER.

Why don't you ask your boy friends to introduce you to some girls? I am sure they would be glad to do so. There are no doubt plenty of nice girls who would be glad to know you. If you have never said so the boys no doubt think you don't care to go with the girls so don't bother about introducing you.

Dear Miss Wise—Will you please give me a good bug exterminator?

HOUSEWIFE.

There are many good bug exterminators on the market which you can purchase at any drug store. Or you can get corrosive sublimate and mix with gasoline and turpentine. The druggist will tell you the proportions of each to be used. This must not be used near fire or light.

Dear Dolly Wise—As you are so kind to help others I thought I would come to you for advice. I am a young man 18 years old, have blue eyes and light hair. I think I am very good looking. I am just crazy after the girls, but it seems like they don't care anything for me. I know a girl about my own age. She has real dark hair and dark eyes. I love her dearly and would like her company but her brothers won't leave her go with me. Now Dolly please advise me what to do as I am heart broken.

DEWEY B.

Friendship, O.
Perhaps the reason the girls don't seem to care for you is because you consider yourself so very handsome. As you are so good looking you ought not have any trouble in making and keeping the friendship of the girls if you act in a gentlemanly way lay aside your "egotistic" manner. If her brother won't let you come to see her, then make other friends and go to see other girls and I am sure you will get over your broken heart.

Dear Dolly—I come to you for advice. I am 29 years old and there is a young man I am deeply in love with and I hope he is the same by me, although I haven't had the opportunity to talk to him. He has called on me several times but I could not fill dates on account of another man has threatened me if he caught me talking to him. He may keep me from talking to him but he can't keep me from loving him and I hope it will all turn out for the better yet. Now Dolly please print this for me.

THE WORRIED GIRL.
You are old enough to know better than to show your "dipiness" about any man. I hope you don't intend to ask him if he returns your love. My advice to you is to act in such a way that the young man will not know you are in love with him. He will respect you very much more than if in your actions he can tell you are wild about him.

Five Painfully Hurt When Jitney Automobile Turns Turtle

Two Suffer Broken Collar Bones ; "Flat Tire" Given As Cause

LIST OF INJURED

Grant Roberts, aged 42 years, "jitney bus" owner of Ashland, Ky., rib fractured, collar bone broken, multiple body bruises, still at Hempstead hospital.

Harry E. LeClare, aged 18 years, of No. 2419 Gallia street, employed as clerk at Montgomery & Lockard's grocery, injured about the spine and suffering greatly from nervous shock.

Milton A. Haws, aged 25 years, of No. 1309 High street, employed as clerk at Montgomery & Lockard's grocery, leg badly bruised, left shoulder and back hurt.

Harry Davis, aged 18 years, of No. 1521 Summit street, employed as clerk at Montgomery & Lockard's grocery, both legs and elbows badly skinned.

Charles S. Lockard, aged 26, of No. 1331 Center street, member of grocery firm of Montgomery & Lockard, collar bone fractured and ankle bone broken.

All of the injured excepting Roberts are still at the Davis home on Summit street.

All five occupants of an Ashland, Ky., "jitney bus" were injured when it "turned turtle" opposite the Isaac Noel home on Scioto Trail Sunday morning at 11 o'clock.

Grant Roberts, the owner of the Ford car, was perhaps the worst injured. He and his brother-in-law, Milt Haws, occupied the front seat. They and Harry Davis were caught underneath the machine when it turned over and were unable to extricate themselves. The other two were thrown into the road. Lockard, with the assistance of Mr. Noel and others who came upon the scene, lifted the battered car from off the men pinioned underneath.

A Cincinnati touring car came along a moment after the accident happened and soon negotiated the short distance to Hempstead hospital. Roberts was promptly taken into the hospital. Dr. W. W. Smith who meanwhile had been dispatched to the scene by relatives of the young men, arrived at the hospital at the same time and assisted LeClare into the building. The other three remained in the touring car and at their request were taken to the Davis home where Dr. Carl Braunlin attended them. LeClare later in the day joined them there. Lockard left the Davis home Sunday night, going to the residence of his aunt, Mrs. A. L. Forrest, of No. 1332 Center street.

His mother and his brother, Ira Lockard and sister, Miss Grace Lockard came down from their home in Wellston, Sunday night to visit him. His business partner Clarence N. Montgomery, who had been spending the day in Wellston, also hastened back to Portsmouth upon learning of the accident.

Roberts was still at the hospital Monday morning but had spent a good night and expected to leave the institution by Monday evening. None of the others was able to work Monday morning. Young Davis was reported feeling quite sick.

The young men blame the accident on a tire puncture occurring just as the car was swinging around to get back on the road after having just passed another automobile. They had been seven or eight miles out the pike on a pleasure spin and were returning home. The car they claim had been working badly and had come to a dead stop several times. Something seemed wrong with the carburetor, and as the throttle invariably "kicked" the engine. It was because of this that Roberts was driving slowly when he passed another machine and in swinging back on the road the right front tire suddenly flattened and in an instant the car turned over.

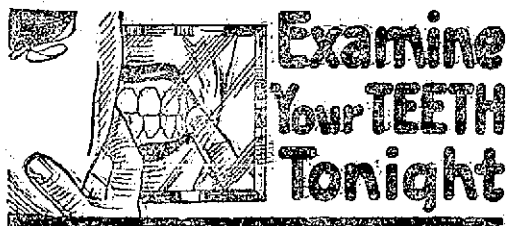

The radiator was bent and its top partly torn off, the windshield was torn off, the front axle sprung and the car otherwise damaged but later was driven in to Portsmouth under its own power.

Taunts Lead To Cutting Scrape, Chester Penix Receives Wounds

Chester Penix, a well known shoemaker, received three knife stabs on the left side of his stomach in a mix-up with an unknown man at the Biggs House corner, Saturday evening.

Penix was standing on the corner when two men approached. One of them evidently mistook him for a relative and began teasing him about being on a saloonkeepers' black list. Penix told him he was mistaken, but he persisted in arguing and became so offensive that Penix hit him, knocking him away. Quick as a flash the fellow whipped out a knife and slashed at him three times then ran down Front street.

His companion had disappeared as soon as it looked like there would be trouble.

Penix, bleeding profusely from the several wounds, walked to Dr. W. E. Gault's office for medical attention. His condition is not serious.

Jefferson pushed his door open, Lewis fired at him with a revolver, it is said. Whether the bullet struck Jefferson is not known.

Right after the shot was fired, Jefferson was seen running down the tracks toward Sciotoville holding his left side. Later he appealed to Police Judge J. T. Basham for assistance. In the meantime, Deputy Sheriff Jacob Baer was called and went to the scene and placed "Curley" Lewis under arrest. He was unable to find either Jefferson or his wife.

Lewis was taken to the county jail and placed behind the bars on a charge of shooting with intent to kill.

WHERE WE ARE STRONG

The fighting strength of an army, that is its powers of endurance, which in modern warfare becomes more and more important, is said to lie in its belly. In other words an army must be well provisioned to attain and maintain its highest efficiency.

By that same token the United States has the best fighters that carry guns, an opinion that is supported by the following language from an English officer, Colonel Patterson, who has just published a book on the British operations about Gallipoli. He says: "For its size, I should say that it (the American army) is one of the finest in the world. Never have I seen more efficiency any where, more keenness among officers and N. C. O.'s, and certainly never in any army have I eaten such delicious food as is supplied to the American private soldier."

The best part of the colonel's observations is that it is so delightfully refreshing in its accuracy, as contrasted with the statements of the ignorant, the excitable, the selfish and the partisan. These set up a common squawk against the inefficiency of the standing army and its general unpreparedness. But no administration has been niggardly in support of the army, its officers are not incompetents and fools. Having most generous means at their hands and seeing the bellies of the rank and file are always kept in fighting trim, it is but a common sense view they would also see to the presence of proper fighting equipment. As a matter of fact, the army is well and plentifully supplied with an excess of munitions and ammunitions. It has as big and good guns as powder was ever put into. Millions are set aside for the purchase of fighting material. To say none of it is used rightly is to charge every officer, high and low, with being a grafter and a traitor. But he is not; the grafter and traitor is he, who for ulterior purpose, procures a condition of incompetency and unpreparedness that does not exist.

After reading the heated eulogium of himself in his own paper last week we are convinced that Editor Lloyd Gehres, of the Republican Herald, Waverly, Ohio, hasn't the slightest doubt as to who is the best equipped, most deserving, most capable, most desirable, most auspicious, most God-given Man of the Hour, to be selected by the Pike county Republican electorate as their candidate for representative at the August primaries.

Hon. Myron T. Herrick is to be a visitor in Portsmouth on the evening of the fourteenth, or next Friday evening. Mr. Herrick is a distinguished citizen, not only of Ohio, but of the nation. He has been governor of the state and has rendered service in diplomatic channels. We trust that the citizens of Portsmouth will give Mr. Herrick a warm and cordial reception, regardless of their political beliefs. It is a good thing for all of us to see and to size up our public men.

Columbus has another afternoon newspaper, beginning today, the Daily Monitor entering the field in competition with the Dispatch and the Citizen. The establishment of the Monitor is the outgrowth of local opposition to the Wolfe brothers who own the Journal and the Dispatch and who are accused by some of their enemies with using their papers for selfish ends. Anyway the papers have shown a decided independence in their treatment of affairs and while this has appealed to some, it has angered others. The Monitor announces that it is going to be a straight out Republican paper and appeals especially to Ohio Republicans for its support. Whether or not it succeeds will depend upon whether or not it gets out a newspaper that will command support and respect as such, in addition to its political opinions or expressions.

The Roanoke World-News sees Boss Barnes in retirement and thinks this was inevitable when Hughes was nominated. Nonsense. The Boss is merely quiescent during the dog days. He will emerge in September to "whoop things up" and Candidate Hughes will be prodding him to the whooping. That's the rule and the way of politics.

NOT THAT SORT AT ALL

Preparedness malice runs riot when it puts forth the following: "Henry Ford is firing employees who join the army. But it isn't on record that he has declined any orders for army trucks."

It ought to be altogether needless to say Henry Ford is not discharging employees for enlisting, just as it is unnecessary to say, that should war come no man will deal more justly by his employees, none be more staunch in support of the government than he. A man who treats his employees generously will not prove recreant in duty as a citizen.

The colored troops, sent by our good young governor to clean up Camp Willis, for the whites, having "saw their duty and done it" faithfully, have been sent back home.

The new woman appears to have arrived. Two millions of her are employed in making munitions for the warring European males.

Let's see, has council passed that street fair ordinance yet?

Even a casual glance will show the Russian claim bureau is in good working order.

THE GENTLE INNUENDO

The spectre that ever dogs the steps of the adventurous newspaper is the libel suit. Oft a reporter gets hold of a good bit of news that is "loaded," as they say in the office, that is the facts are sure enough, but there is no way of proving them and that makes the libel suit spectre arise. Thus comes the problem of how to tell the tale and escape liability of a law action. Now, it is the law that a libel can not be established by innuendo, that is an individual holding himself aggrieved by a publication, can not by indirect conclusion and the adducement of extraneous circumstances, that is by anything foreign to the article itself show he has been libeled. This sometimes gives the newspaper a loop hole through which it can safely print the particular news. Of course, this requires knowledge of the law, cleverness in handling the harmless facts and ingenuity in leaving inference take the place of those it is unsafe to relate. About the cleverest use of the innuendo we have seen in quite awhile was in a story sent out from Toledo, last week. This story ran that from a postoffice sub-station in Toledo, located in a section inhabited entirely by Poles, twenty thousand dollars had been withdrawn one day, the run being based on the rumor that the government had become bankrupt through war with Mexico. It was stated secret service men were investigating the origin of the rumor, with the purpose of investigation and in an entirely incidental way, it was related that a few days before, two Poles employed in the postoffice, had quit their jobs to go into a Polish bank, located near the sub-station. It would be a dudard, indeed, who would not leap to the conclusion as to who had started the rumor, but no action for libel can be maintained upon the facts as stated, for there is no accusation against anyone and if the reader will draw his own conclusion, a newspaper can't help that.

The observant Washington Post observes that everything connected with the Bull Moose party seems to be declining, except John M. Parker, nominee for vice president.

It's about time those European cannonings were producing more rains over in this section of the Lord's vineyard.

John D. Rockefeller was 77 years young, Saturday, and observed the day by playing golf all morning and eating a hearty dinner at noon. Twenty-three years from now he will be telling us youngsters that the secret of age attainment is making the mid-day meal the big one and keeping supper, what its name implies, a mere sup.

Oh, well, look who's here again. It's Chillicothe with another ball team for us to beat.

Come to think of it Wilson would be a mighty poor president if he pleased everybody.

Everyday Wisdom

By DON HEROLD

MOTHS

A moth has absolutely no regard for expenses; no domestic animal in creation has such extravagant tastes: it is selfish; it thinks only of personal aggrandizement; and why anybody wants willingly to keep a moth around and pamper and indulge it in its gormandizing, is quite beyond the understanding of sensible people. Only wealthy women without children may be excused for adopting a moth to raise—they can afford it, and perhaps the moth fills a place in their hearts—but even they should be made to muzzle their moths when they go to their homes for a call and hang your overcoat in the hall; otherwise your coat is just as apt as not to be half eaten when you are ready to depart.

Moths are not much on sociability. They are of a retiring nature, and prefer the solitude and retirement of a closet full of fine clothes to the brightness and excitement of the family circle. That is another thing that you have about a moth, it seems rather sneaking, rather than open and above board. A moth never asks for what it wants. Personally, we see nothing lovable in a moth. A moth will eat $500 worth of furs and never mention it to you. A moth eats everything but clothes hoods.

The ammunition factories work night and day turning out mothballs, and still the moths ply their nefarious jaws, eating entire attires here, and eating kitchen aprons and sea-skin kimonos with equal avidity, whatever that is. You can shoot mothballs at a moth all summer and turn your back for half an hour and the moth will know a "V" out of your coat tail while you are not looking. They are that vicious.

Redlet Squirrel

"I CAN'T MAKE OUT what's the matter with Redlet," said Reddy Squirrel to his friend Timmy Graytail one summer noon.

"What seems to be the trouble?" asked Timmy, and he was interested at once, because he liked both Reddy and Redlet and counted himself the best friend of both.

Reddy Squirrel scratched his tail three times and then said thoughtfully, "He don't eat anything."

"Idle talk!" exclaimed Timmy. "He does."

"No, he doesn't," replied Reddy with a sorrowful shake of his head; "not one thing does he eat!"

Timmy looked at Reddy long and carefully. "Are you sure you are not sick, Reddy?" he finally asked. "Does anything hurt you, or are you hungry?"

"Nonsense, Timmy, do be sensible," retorted Reddy. "You can see, if you look, that I'm perfectly well, only I'm worried about Redlet—that's every single bit the matter. Why do you ask?"

"Because you think such silly things about him," replied Timmy promptly. "Any creature with half an eye can see that Redlet Squirrel is not starving himself. He's fatter and rounder than you are! Where did you get your idea?"

"I tell you I didn't get an idea," replied Reddy crossly. "I know! I took home some fine bits of lettuce this noon—lettuce that I stole so carefully from that garden across from the park. And Redlet, instead of gobbling it all up, as I had thought he would, didn't even taste it. They saw Redlet Squirrel feasting on cabbage and lettuce that was brought to him by two very happy looking little girls! No wonder he wasn't hungry when he got home! No wonder!"

Timmy Graytail stared. "Um-um," said he finally, "that hears investigating. Meet me here tomorrow—A Transformed Sand Pile."

Begin At Home

If thou wouldst right the world, And banish all its evils and its woes, Make its wild places bloom, And its drear deserts blossom as the rose— Then right thyself.

If thou wouldst turn the world From its long, lone captivity in sin, Restore all broken hearts, Slay grief, and let sweet consolation in— Turn thou thyself.

If thou wouldst cure the world Of its long sickness, and its grief and pain, Bring in all-healing joy, and give to the afflicted rest again— Then cure thyself.

DEFYING BLOCKADE, GERMAN 'SUB' MERCHANT REACHES U. S. PORT

CARRIED VALUABLE CARGO, A FLEET OF SUCH CRAFT MAY PLY REGULARLY IN TRANS-ATLANTIC TRADE

Baltimore, Md., July 10.—The gigantic German merchant submarine Deutschland ended her voyage across the Atlantic at 6:40 this morning when she was docked at the pier of the Eastern Forwarding Co., on the outskirts of Baltimore.

The submarine left quarantine at 5:30 after the health officers had boarded the craft and given permission to proceed. It was announced that a statement would be made regarding the extraordinary voyage by officials of the North German Lloyd company later today.

New York, July 10.—The arrival at an American port of a German submarine and the possibility of establishing a carrier service between the United States and the blockaded Teutonic nations has aroused particular interest here among persons who have suffered from their inability to send to Germany and Austria-Hungary money and legal documents. It was said today that if the submarine returns home she will carry an important consignment of bank drafts and legal papers of various kinds.

Ordinarily $150,000,000 a year is sent from this country to Austria-Hungary but with the war this fell off to $15,000,000.

The settlement of at least of the estates now in the surrogate court here has been held up because it was impossible to send or receive the necessary legal documents to or from the cities of the Central Powers. Mortgages have been foreclosed because it was impossible to obtain the interest due from soldiers in Germany and Austria-Hungary. This effect of the blockade has been felt in all the cities of the United States where there is a large Teutonic population.

William J. Matheson, president of the Cassella Color company, one of the firms to which the dye aboard the Deutschland are consigned, said:

"I was told about the submarine about a month ago but in a most mysterious way. Word was passed along from mouth to mouth and even now I could not tell you from whom I got my information. I knew, however, that if any dyes were shipped, I should get some of them. We have had orders for dye supplies in Germany ever since the war began and have had our money there to pay for them.

"As to the value of the cargo I could not say. The value of the dyes depends on how highly concentrated they are and it is likely that they are in a very highly concentrated form. I would guess that one pound of the dyes in the submarine would be equal to two pounds of the standardized dyes."

Upon the estimate of Mr. Matheson it seems that the dyes aboard the submarine are worth between $4,000 and $6,000 a ton.

Baltimore, Md., July 10.—Definite announcement that the great German submarine merchantman Deutschland which reached Chesapeake Bay yesterday, is the first of a fleet of such craft built to ply regularly in the Trans-Atlantic trade was made here early today by Capt. Paul Koning, master of the Super-Submarine.

More Submarines Coming

"This is not the only one that is coming," said the captain.

"Just wait. There will be more here soon, and we are going back for another cargo. We are going to have a regular line."

It was to port officials that the

Master Laughed Over His Feat

He spoke freely to the officers and laughed over his feat. News-papersmen asked questions over the ship's side. He was not so communicative, explaining that, formal statement would be issued later by the representatives of the owners.

Had Clean Bill of Health

Shortly after four o'clock when daylight was beginning to show faintly through heavy low lying clouds and a steady drizzling rain, a boat with health and customs officials aboard put out from the quarantine station and went alongside the submarine. To the municipal health officer, Dr. Thomas L. Richardson, the skipper, presented his bill of health, issued to him by William Thomas Lee, United States consul at Bremen on June 14.

Gross Tonnage of Sub 791 Tons

The document describes the Deutschland as "a vessel engaged in the freight trade between Bremen and Boston or other eastern Atlantic ports." It records her gross tonnage as 791, she is "newly built" has a cargo of dye stuffs in good condition, and a wholesome supply of water from the Bremen water works.

One thing the boarding officers noted particularly—there were no torpedo tubes or guns of any description visible aboard the vessel. They had been told that she mounted two small calibre rifles for defense, but came ashore convinced that the visitor was wholly unarmed.

Dyestuffs Composed Cargo

It was learned that the boat left Bremen with her load of about 750 tons of valuable dye stuffs which her owners hope to sell to American manufacturers for a fortune. At Helgoland she wasted nine days, leaving there June 23 to plough deep beneath the surface of the North Sea to escape the watchful eyes of the Allied blockaders. Captain Koning intimated that the purpose of his long delay at Helgoland was to deceive the enemy who undoubtedly had heard rumors of the submarine's coming with a broad smile. This accounted for the belief in the United States that the vessel was a week overdue, a misapprehension that caused many embassy officials to fear that she had run into allied warships or fallen victim to an Atlantic storm. Once outside the blockading lines and into the Atlantic, according to the captain's story, he headed straight across and only deviated from his course once when he saw what he thought was an enemy war craft. Most of the time he sped along on the surface. Submerged he could go at the rate of 7 1/2 knots.

Greeted By the Tug Timmons

Approaching the capes late Saturday, Captain Koning found his path apparently clear. He laid to with his decks awash, however, waiting until darkness fell before nearing the coast. As the bright half moon went down, shortly after midnight, he put on all speed and shot between the Virginia Capes, to be greeted by the tug Timmons sent there more than a week before to await his coming.

Submarine Carried Small Crew

On board the submarine are the trim, slightly built man of medium height, around forty years of age. Two of his seasons are grizzled old tars, but all the rest are youths apparently ranging from 18 to 23.

Discover Palace Of The Pharaoh Of Oppression

Philadelphia, July 10.—The Museum of the University of Pennsylvania has made public a report from Dr. Clarence S. Fisher, leader of the Eckley B. Cox, Jr., expedition to Egypt in which he tells of what appears to be the discovery that Meremphah had in his palace at Memphis, an archeological museum something like those of the present day. Meremphah was the son of Rameses the Great, and by many is identified as the Pharaoh of the Oppression as described in the book of Exodus.

The palace was discovered early in the present year, the report said. It was large and elaborately decorated, but at some time was destroyed by fire, traces of which are abundant. The palace was about one hundred and eighty feet long and one hundred feet wide and contained about twenty rooms. The throne room was a magnificent chamber of about sixty by forty feet. In describing this room, the museum announcement stated that "it is probable that this throne room, if not the same one, is similar to the one in which Moses and Aaron confronted the Pharaoh demanding that the people of Israel be permitted to go.  the authorities in Egypt admit that a great discovery has been made."

New York, July 10.—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt has made formal application to the War department for permits to raise a division of volunteers for service in the event of war with Mexico. Secretary of War Newton D. Baker is said to have formally approved the application and indicated that should war be declared a Major General's commission will be tendered to Colonel Roosevelt.

COMING OF DEUTSCHLAND MAY MARK PASSING OF THE ERA OF BLOCKADES, U. S. OFFICERS DECLARE

Washington, July 10.—The fact that boarding officers found the German merchant submarine Deutschland wholly unarmed goes far toward simplifying any question as to her status as a merchant ship in American water.

Officials realize, however, that the British and French embassies while interested little in what the Deutschland has brought over, are concerned over the cargo of rubber and nickel she proposes to carry back to Germany and expect that nothing will be left undone by Germany's enemies to prevent or hinder her clearance.

Although the fact that the submarine is unarmed is of first importance, such factors as the composition of the crew and actual ownership will have to be established, to determine whether the submarine could be classed as a naval auxiliary. Naval officers, while attracted by the great size of the submarine and her long voyage, consider the fact that she successfully ran the allied blockade attracts them most.

Some of them pointed out that if a successful means of running a blockade had been perfected, one of the most potent measures of warfare had become a thing of the past.

Until the customs officials' report is received Acting Secretary Polk said today that no action was contemplated by the state department.

"We must await the investigation of the treasury department," he said. "Until that is submitted the state department has no information upon which to proceed."

Mr. Polk said that for the time being at least details of inspection of the submarine were within the jurisdiction of the treasury department, aided possibly by the navy department.

Reports that the submarine is unarmed, Mr. Polk added, indicated that the state department's position would be much simplified.

Some of them pointed out that if a successful means of running a blockade had been perfected, one of the most potent measures of warfare had become a thing of the past.

FRENCH WITHIN ONE MILE OF PERONNE

CAPTURE THIRD POSITION OF STUBBORN GERMANS, ARMY MOVED FORWARD LIKE WELL OILED MACHINE

(Bulletin)

Paris, July 10.—A new attack was launched in the Champagne by the French last night. The war office today announced the capture of trenches over a front of 500 metres.

On the Somme front the French took a line of German positions in the neighborhood of Barleux. In this section, 950 Germans were captured yesterday and last night.

The Germans made attacks at five points simultaneously in the Vosges, but all their assaults were checked completely by the fire of French machine guns.

(Bulletin)

London, July 10.—Steady progress for the British forces in the neighborhood of Ovillers on the Somme front, is reported in an official statement given out here today.

Paris, July 10.—The French have advanced their line south of the Somme a mile and a half, capturing the German third position along a length of three and one-half miles and are now within a mile of Peronne. French critics believe that the capture of Peronne now is a question almost of hours.

Under the systems of interlocking echelons it was the turn of the right wing to push forward, the other echelons on the center and left being saved to effect the movement required of them. The troops south of the Somme apparently had made good use of their breathing spell. When the word was given they moved forward with the precision of a well oiled machine. They swept across the northern of the two plateaus which face Peronne, clearing out the German positions and establishing themselves solidly in the trenches, which had been turned into quagmires by the combined effects of bombardment and incessant rain.

The Germans offered the best resistance they could, but the French artillery has been keeping up a formidable drum fire upon their lines of communication making it almost impossible for them to get either reinforcements or food in suitable quantities.

RUSSIAN HOSPITAL SHIP SUNK WITHOUT WARNING

Petrograd, July 10.—(Via London)—The Russian hospital ship Vperiode, the sinking of which in the Black Sea with the loss of seven lives, was officially announced today, was proceeding without escort from Batoum to embark wounded soldiers. The Vperiode was one of 858 tons and was constructed in 1893 with accommodations for 120 wounded.

The official Russian statement said the Vperiode was sunk by an "Enemy submarine without warning."

Guard Subscribing To The Federal Oath; Will Care For Families

Camp Willis, Columbus, Ohio, July 10.—Following a Sunday holiday of relaxation from drills and camp routine, Ohio's national guardsmen today resumed their work of getting ready for border service. Mustering into the federal service was continued. It was expected that before night fall the first battalion of field artillery would be taken into the federal service.

Major H. M. Bush, of Columbus, commander of the artillery battalion, had his men ready for the physical examination, and having passed this would be ready for the federal oath.

It is expected that during the week a state-wide movement will be started to establish funds to aid the families of guardsmen who are in the service. It is recognized that those with families dependent upon them must hesitate before taking the oath to enter the federal service. The war department order issued last night authorizing department commanders to grant discharges to men who present proof that there are others dependent upon them, will act to obtain the release of a number of men, but it is desired to retain as many men in the guard as possible and it is believed that these funds to aid dependents may assist in keeping these men in the service. Members of the artillery battalion today had as a part of their equipment a large observation balloon and 4,000 feet of cable, the gift of an Akron rubber company. Sergeant Ralph Upson, of Akron, will operate the balloon. Thousands of visitors were at the camp yesterday.

Terrific Hitting Of Spencer Men Featured; Dilts Made Six Hits

MAYSVILLE, Ky., July 30.—The Cobblers downed the Burley Cubs yesterday afternoon by an overwhelming score of 18 to 6. It was a sloppy played game on the part of the locals. Ferguson and Simms worked for the visitors, while French and Skinner did the twirling for the locals, and were hammered all over the lot. The feature of the game was the heavy hitting of the Cobblers.

WHERE WE ARE STRONG

The fighting strength of an army, that is its powers of endurance, which in modern warfare becomes more and more important, is said to lie in its belly. In other words an army must be well provisioned to attain and maintain its highest efficiency.

By that same token the United States has the best fighters that carry guns, an opinion that is supported by the following language from an English officer, Colonel Patterson, who has just published a book on the British operations about Gallipoli. He says: "For its size, I should say that it (the American army) is one of the finest in the world. Never have I seen more efficiency anywhere, more keenness among officers and N. C. O.'s, and certainly never in any army have I eaten such delicious food as is supplied to the American private soldier."

The best part of the colonel's observations is that it is so delightfully refreshing in its accuracy, as contrasted with the statements of the ignorant, the excitable, the selfish and the partisan. These set up a common squawk against the inefficiency of the standing army and its general unpreparedness. But no administration has been niggardly in support of the army, its officers are not incompetents and fools. Having most generous means at their hands and seeing the bellies of the rank and file are always kept in fighting trim, it is but a common sense view they would also see to the presence of proper fighting equipment. As a matter of fact, the army is well and plentifully supplied with an excess of munitions and ammunitions. It has as big and good guns as powder was ever put into. Millions are set aside for the purchase of fighting material. To say none of it is used rightly is to charge every officer, high and low, with being a grafter and a traitor. But he is not; the grafter and traitor is he, who for ulterior purpose, proclaims a condition of incompetency and unpreparedness that does not exist.

After reading the heated eulogium of himself in his own paper last week we are convinced that Editor Lloyd Gehres, of the Republican Herald, Waverly, Ohio, hasn't the slightest doubt as to who is the best equipped, most deserving, most capable, most desirable, most auspicious, most God-given Man of the Hour, to be selected by the Pike county Republican electorate as their candidate for representative at the August primaries.

Hon. Myron T. Herrick is to be a visitor in Portsmouth on the evening of the fourteenth, or next Friday evening. Mr. Herrick is a distinguished citizen, not only of Ohio, but of the nation. He has been governor of the state and has rendered service in diplomatic channels. We trust that the citizens of Portsmouth will give Mr. Herrick a warm and cordial reception, regardless of their political beliefs. It is a good thing for all of us to see and to size up our public men.

Columbus has another afternoon newspaper, beginning today, the Daily Monitor entering the field in competition with the Dispatch and the Citizen. The establishment of the Monitor is the outgrowth of local opposition to the Wolfe brothers who own the Journal and the Dispatch and who are accused by some of their enemies with using their papers for selfish ends. Anyway the papers have shown a decided independence in their treatment of affairs and while this has appealed to some, it has angered others. The Monitor announces that it is going to be a straight out Republican paper and appeals especially to Ohio Republicans for its support. Whether or not it succeeds will depend upon whether or not it gets out a newspaper that will command support and respect as such, in addition to its political opinions or expressions.

The Roanoke World-News sees Boss Barnes in retirement and thinks this was inevitable when Hughes was nominated. Nonsense. The Boss is merely quiescent during the dog days. He will emerge in September to "whoop things up" and Candidate Hughes will be prodding him to the whooping. That's the rule and the way of politics.

NOT THAT SORT AT ALL

Preparedness malice runs riot when it puts forth the following: "Henry Ford is firing employees who join the army. But it isn't on record that he has declined any orders for army trucks."

It ought to be altogether needless to say Henry Ford is not discharging employees for enlisting, just as it is unnecessary to say, that should war come no man will deal more justly by his employees, none be more staunch in support of the government than he. A man who treats his employees generously will not prove recreant in duty as a citizen.

The colored troops, sent by our good young governor to clean up Camp Willis, for the whites, having "saw their duty and done it" faithfully, have been sent back home.

The new woman appears to have arrived. Two millions of her are employed in making munitions for the warring European males.

Let's see, has council passed that street fair ordinance yet?

Even a casual glance will show the Russian claim bureau is in good working order.

THE GENTLE INNUENDO

The spout that ever dogs the steps of the adventurous newspaper is the libel suit. Oft a reporter gets hold of a good bit of news that is "loaded," as they say in the office, that is the facts are sure enough, but there is no way of proving them and that makes the libel suit spectre arise. Thus comes the problem of how to tell the tale and escape liability of a law action. Now, it is the law that a libel can not be established by innuendo, that is an individual holding himself aggrieved by a publication, can not by indirect conclusion and the adducement of extraneous circumstances, that is by anything foreign to the article itself show he has been libeled. This sometimes gives the newspaper a loop hole through which it can safely print the particular news. Of course, this requires knowledge of the law, cleverness in handling the harmless facts and ingenuity in leaving inference take the place of those it is unsafe to relate. About the cleverest use of the innuendo we have seen in quite awhile was in a story sent out from Toledo, last week. This story ran that from a postoffice sub-station in Toledo, located in a section inhabited entirely by Poles, twenty thousand dollars had been withdrawn one day, the run being based on the rumor that the government had become bankrupt through war with Mexico. It was stated secret service men were investigating the origin of the rumor, with the purpose of investigation and in an entirely incidental way, it was related that a few days before, two Poles employed in the postoffice, had quit their jobs to go into a Polish bank, located near the sub-station. It would be a dullard, indeed, who would not leap to the conclusion as to who had started the rumor, but no action for libel can be maintained upon the facts as stated, for there is no accusation against anyone and if the reader will draw his own conclusion, a newspaper can't help that.

The observant Washington Post observes that everything connected with the Bull Moose party seems to be declining, except John M. Parker, nominee for vice president.

It's about time those European cannonadings were producing more rains over in this section of the Lord's vineyard.

John D. Rockefeller was 77 years young, Saturday, and observed the day by playing golf all morning and eating a hearty dinner at noon. Twenty-three years from now he will be telling us youngsters that the secret of age attainment is making the mid-day meal the big one and keeping supper, what its name implies, a mere sup.

Oh, well, look who's here again. It's Chillicothe with another ball team for us to beat.

Come to think of it Wilson would be a mighty poor president if he pleased everybody.

Everyday Wisdom

By DON HEROLD

ETTA, WHERE ARE MY PAJAMAS? DARN THAT MOTH!

MOTH!

A moth has absolutely no regard for expenses; no domestic animal in creation has such extravagant tastes: it is selfish; it thinks only of personal aggrandizement; and why anyone would want to keep a moth around and pamper and indulge it in its voraciousness, is quite beyond the understanding of sensible people. Only wealthy women without children may be excused for adopting a moth to raise—they can afford it, and perhaps the moth fills a place in their hearts—that even they should be made to muzzle their moths when they go to their homes for a call and hang your overcoat in the hall; otherwise your coat is just as apt as not to be half eaten when you are ready to depart.

Moths are not much on sociability. They are of a retiring nature, and prefer the solitude and retirement of a closet full of fine clothes to the limelight and excitement of the family circle. That is another thing that you hate about a moth, it seems rather sneaking, rather than open and above board. A moth never asks for what it wants. Perpetually, we see nothing lovely in a moth. A moth will eat $500 worth of furs and never mention it to you. A moth eats everything but clothes.

The ammunition factories work night and day turning out mothbills, and still the moths ply their nefarious jaws, eating entire attics bare, and using kitchen aprons and sea-skin trunks with equal avidity, whatever that is. You can shoot mothballs at a moth all summer and turn your back for half an hour and the moth will gnaw a "V" out of your coat tail while you are not looking, they are that vicious.

Redlet Squirrel

"I CAN'T MAKE OUT what's the matter with Redlet," said Reddy Squirrel to his friend Timmy Graytail one summer noon.

"What seems to be the trouble?" asked Timmy, and he was interested at once, because he liked both Reddy and Redlet and counted himself the best friend of both.

Reddy Squirrel scratched his tail three times and then said thoughtfully, "He don't eat anything."

"Fiddlesticks!" exclaimed Timmy. "He does."

"No, he doesn't," replied Reddy with a sorrowful shake of his head; "not one thing does he eat!"

"Timmy looked at Reddy long and carefully. 'Are you sure you are not sick, Reddy?' he finally asked. 'Does anything hurt you, or are you hungry?'"

"Nonsense, Timmy, do be sensible," retorted Reddy. "You can see, if you look, that I'm perfectly well, only I'm worried about Redlet—that's every single bit the matter. Why do you ask?"

"Because you think such silly things about him," replied Timmy promptly. "Any creature with half an eye can see that Redlet Squirrel is not starving himself. He's fatter and rounder than you are! Where did you get your idea?"

"I tell you I didn't get an idea," replied Reddy crossly. "I know! I took home some fine bits of lettuce from that garden across from the park. And Redlet, instead of gobbling it all up, as I had thought he would, didn't even taste it. He wouldn't taste it even when I begged him to try a bite. And what's more, that's the third time that's happened!"

"Timmy Graytail stared. 'Um-um,' said he finally, 'that bears investigating. Meet me here tomorrow—A Transformed Band Pile.'

NEW-YORK-DAY-BY-DAY

O-O-MEINTYRE.

New York, July 10—Down in the Men's Night Court a thrill was provided the caucused court attaches the other evening. The grist included the polyglot drunks, dips, drug fiends and the other slosh and jetsum of the sordid night life of the Tenderloin.

Then through the doors from the "bull pen" came a frail young man of studious bearing wearing horn-rimmed glasses. He had been picked for loitering by a Central office sleuth in the chop suey belt on Seventh avenue.

"The prisoner seemed a little dazed by the proceedings and altogether out of the picture. The magistrate, a keen student of human nature, was just a little more gentle with him than usual. He coughed nervously behind his slim hand and said he had very little to say.

Bit by bit the story was drawn from his unwilling lips. Three years ago he came to New York from London. He was an artist but editors were not willing to buy his work.

In two years he had not been able to make more than four or five dollars. He had built a little bunk arrangement behind a sign board in the Gas House district. This was his home, practically on the street but screened from public view. He had lived on free lunches and now and then drifted into gay crowds that dined at the chop suey restaurants.

Not once had he asked anyone for assistance. He believed things would come out alright eventually and so he held on to his dreams. He was released and as he passed out of the courtroom there was just a slight noise that sounded like a chorus of stifled sobs.

Fred Hall, of the Herald, has been spending the past week pouring over the resort booklets as a method of preparedness for his summer vacation. One in particular, describing the charms of a resort in the Adirondacks caught his eye.

It said: "The view from the golf links beggars description. Near the rippling lake is a tennis court, its smooth surface lying close to the famous croquet grounds, where one may hear the joyous shouts of the players, echoing against the mountainside."

Mr. Hall can hardly restrain himself to be off at once. He thinks the yell of a croquet player as he "wires" his opponent will be one of the thrills of a lifetime. He is also anxious to know how the racket experts do their cheering.

There may or may not be opportunities in the movies—it is a craze that appeals to our sluggish nature very little. But here is a case that has come under our personal observation.

A few years ago Jack Sherrill, a lad in short trousers, was attending a private school on the West Side. He was a movie fan. He could tell you what year Mary Pickford was born and what kind of a tooth brush King Baggot used.

Last week he started for a film studio in Los Angeles with his mother. In his pocket was an honest to goodness contract for $250 a week for two days work a week.

Also his name is in electric lights in front of a big Broadway movie palace. This may be an exception—as we said before we know very little about the movie game.

Picked up along Broadway: A new electric sign shows a squirrel climbing a tree. Five new shooting galleries have opened up in the neighborhood of Times Square. A window demonstrator is exhibiting corsets for men and how to wear them. A pink runabout with a special seat for a white poodle stands near Forty-sixth street every afternoon. Jim Carhart is wearing a black straw hat. Gene Buck, lyric writer, has a brown suit trimmed with white braid. A new cigar for motorists that has no ashes.

OHIO RIVER HAS CLAIMED FIRST VICTIM OF SEASON

John Humphreys, Aged 11, Met Death Near Dykes, Body Found By Father, Two Boys Rescued

In what almost proved to be a quadruple drowning, John W. Humphreys, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Humphreys, 1226 Franklin avenue, lost his life while bathing in the Ohio river late Saturday afternoon. This is the first victim of the bathing season. The drowning occurred in a deep hole about a half mile above the government dykes. Sunday morning the body of the unfortunate lad was recovered by the father near the place where it was last seen. It was taken to the Daehler mortuary and prepared for burial.

The drowning was surrounded with scenes of excitement and four lives were nearly lost in the attempt to save one.

The little boy had been sent down street Saturday afternoon, by his mother, who gave him instructions to purchase a box of shoe laces and return home. Instead of doing this, he went to the Jay Kellison home, 1111 Fourth street, to play with the two Kellison boys.

When Mr. Kellison returned in the afternoon he urged him to take them to the river for a swim. About four o'clock Mr. Kellison and sons, John, 10, and Lewis, 6, and John Humphreys started for the dykes.

They selected a sandy stretch of bar, which was about midway between two sand dredges and disrobed. After romping and playing with the boys for several minutes, Mr. Kellison says he returned to the shore, dressed and was preparing to call the boys in, when Lewis Kellison, 6, who had become detached from the others, stumbled into some deep water and began to struggle.

His frantic cries of distress took the attracted party to his rescue, and before Mr. Kellison was aware of it, he says, all of them were fighting for their lives in one of the deep holes scooped out by the sand dredges. He says he succeeded in getting hold of all three boys, but their strenuous efforts to keep their heads above the surface of the water, broke his grip.

lower sand dredge and poled for him until about eight o'clock and then gave it up.

The boy's father assisted in the search until dark Saturday and then returned home. Early Sunday morning, in company with V. J. Gans, brother-in-law, he returned, secured a skiff and made a diligent search. After hours of fruitless effort the father discovered the body near the same place it had disappeared. He fastened a spool upon the corpse and brought it to the surface.

Coroner J. W. Daehler was called and after viewing the remains stated that the boy had met his death by accidental drowning. The body was then removed to the undertaking establishment.

Last year there were nine lives lost in the Ohio and Scioto rivers. The victims were:

Samuel Turner, 50, Peebles Paying Brick plant employee, drowned in Ohio river Friday, May 7.

Marion Timberlake, 14, of Children's Home, Scioto river, supposed to have drowned Saturday, June 5.

Albert Hoover, 12, of Children's Home, Scioto river, supposed to have drowned Saturday, June 5.

Edward Covert, 10, of Children's Home, Scioto river, supposed to have drowned Saturday, June 5.

Andy Verego, foreigner, Whitaker-Glessner company employee, Scioto river, week of June 7.

Humor Stewart, 28, Mt. Vernon Bridge company employee, Scioto river, Wednesday, June 16.

Dey Allen, 19, Dravo Contracting company, Ohio river, Saturday, July 17.

Edward Edgell, 14, from Pittsburgh, Ohio river, Friday, July 23.

William Edward Collins, Ohio river, Saturday, July 24.

He has long since shelved Professor Napoleon and is now the owner of the "College Hero," which he has given with much success in San Francisco, Los Angeles, Portland and other large cities in the far West. Recruiting Tent Has Come Down, Company K To Organize Tonight

Recruiting days for the Ohio National Guards in the city are over, for the time being at least. For Monday morning, bright and early the big government tent which has been on the Gallia street esplanade for the past three weeks, was taken down and will be stored in the armory, Seventh and Chillicothe streets.

Private Hobson Parker superintended the removal of the tent. Lieutenant Joseph Horchow stated Monday that Company K, had 50 men with the new men recruited and a full organization would be completed Monday evening.

Taunts Lead To Cutting Scrape, Chester Penix Receives Wounds

Chester Penix, a well known shoemaker, received three knife stabs on the left side of his stomach in a mix-up with an unknown man at the Biggs House corner, Saturday evening.

Penix was standing on the corner when two men approached. One of them evidently mistook him for a relative and began teasing him about being on a saloon-keepers' black list. Penix told him he was mistaken, but he persisted in arguing and became so offensive that Penix hit him, knocking him away. Quick as a flash the fellow whipped out a knife and slashed at him three times then ran down Front street.

His companion had disappeared as soon as it looked like there would be trouble.

Penix, bleeding profusely from the several wounds, walked to Dr. W. E. Gault's office for medical attention. His condition is not serious.

Gun Play Staged In Construction Camp, "Curley" Lewis Arrested

An exciting gun-play was staged at the Langhorne, Langhorne Company and Sneed construction camp, near Sciotoville, Sunday evening about six o'clock, when a negro known as Emmett Jefferson returned to his shanty to find it occupied, he claimed, by his wife, Ruth Jefferson, and a negro answering to the name of "Curley" Jim Lewis. Just as Jefferson pushed his door open Lewis fired at him with a revolver, it is said. Whether the bullet struck Jefferson is not known.

Right after the shot was fired, Jefferson was seen running down the tracks toward Sciotoville holding his left side. Later he appeared to Police Judge J. T. Bushman for assistance. In the meantime, Deputy Sheriff Jacob Baer was called and went to the scene and placed "Curley" Lewis under arrest. He was unable to find either Jefferson or his wife.

Lewis was taken to the county jail and placed behind the bars on a charge of shooting with intent to kill.

Five Painfully Hurt When Jitney Automobile Turns Turtle

Two Suffer Broken Collar Bones; "Flat Tire" Given As Cause

LIST OF INJURED

Grant Roberts, aged 42 years, "jitney bus" owner of Ashland, Ky., rib fractured, collar bone broken, multiple body bruises, still at Hempstead hospital.

Harry E. LeClair, aged 18 years, of No. 2419 Gallia street, employed as clerk at Montgomery & Lockard's grocery, injured about the spine and suffering greatly from nervous shock.

Milton A. Haws, aged 25 years, of No. 1309 High street, employed as clerk at Montgomery & Lockard's grocery, leg badly bruised, left shoulder and back hurt.

Harry Davis, aged 18 years, of No. 1521 Summit street, employed as clerk at Montgomery & Lockard's grocery, both legs and elbows badly skinned.

Charles S. Lockard, aged 26, of No. 1331 Center street, member of grocery firm of Montgomery & Lockard, collar bone fractured and ankle bone broken.

All of the injured excepting Roberts are still at the Davis home on Summit street.

All five occupants of an Ashland, Ky., "jitney bus" were injured when it "turned turtle" opposite the Isaac Noel home on Scioto Trail Sunday morning at 11 o'clock.

Grant Roberts, the owner of the Ford car, was perhaps the worst injured. He and his brother-in-law, Milt Haws, occupied the front seat. They and Harry Davis were caught underneath the automobile when it turned over and were unable to extricate themselves. The other two were thrown into the road. Lockard, with the assistance of Mr. Noel and others who came upon the scene, lifted the battered car from off the men pinioned underneath.

A Cincinnati touring car came along a moment after the accident. Clarence N. Montgomery, who happened and soon negotiated the had been spending the day in short distance to Hempstead hospital. Roberts was promptly taken to hospital.

Numerous Arrests Made By The Police; Hearing Set For Tonight

Practically all cases on Mayor H. H. Kaps' docket resulting from Saturday night's and Sunday's arrests were set for hearing Monday evening. The list includes the following:

Joe Reiser, a Chillicothe street pawnbroker, charged with disorderly conduct. Reiser is said to have started an argument with Officer Goings when he asked him to quit sitting against a front window of the Red Cross pharmacy.

Roberts was still at the hospital Monday morning but had spent a good night and expected to leave the institution by Monday evening. None of the others was able to work Monday morning. Young Davis was reported feeling quite sick.

The young men blame the accident on a fire puncture occurring just as the car was swinging around to get back on the road after having just passed another automobile. They had been seven or eight miles out the pike on a pleasure spin and were returning home. The car they claim had been working badly and had come to a dead stop several times.

Something seemed wrong with the car, and opening the throttle invariably "killed" the engine. It was because of this that Roberts was driving slowly when he passed another machine and in swinging back on the road the right front tire suddenly flattened and in an instant the car turned over.

The radiator was bent and its top partly torn off, the windshield was torn off, the front axle sprung and the car otherwise damaged but later was driven in to Portsmouth under its own power.

GERMAN SUB

Sub Cheered By Waiting Craft

When the sub was released from quarantine, she moved up the river to the pier of the Eastern Forwarding Company six miles away, to a carefully guarded waiting berth. On the way up she passed a dozen merchantmen lying at anchor. The first, a big Norwegian freighter, dipped her flag and her whole ship's company lined against the rail gave three rousing cheers which were answered with a will. With another Norwegian and two Dutch ships the submarine exchanged formal salutes. She moved close by a number of British tramps in silence observed with eager interest by the English crews.

Capt. Konig Posed For Picture At the dock the boat had hardly been tied before an army of newspaper men and moving picture photographers stormed the place. They were not permitted

When the photographers gave him a rest he held a sort of impromptu reception, shaking hands with everybody and telling how glad he was to be in an American port.

Later he was persuaded to bring out his crew. The German youngsters brought with them a large green board taken from the stern of the ship on which was painted in big silver letters, "Deutschland-Bremer."

Grouped about the board, with their skipper in the center the sailors posed until Captain Konig said it was time to eat. A force of longshoremen was ready on the dock to begin unloading the cargo which is to be shipped as soon as possible by the Eastern Forwarding company to the purchasers, the New York Chemical company.

Will Take Back Rubber and Nickel

Probably a day or two will be required to discharge, then the submarine will take on the erude rubber and nickel consignments already stored in the pier warehouse for her return trip. When the start back across the Atlantic will be of course is problematical.

An official of the Forwarding company said today it might be two weeks or it might be a month but it was not denied that no advance notice would be given and that the vessel would make her way out of the capes whenever and however the opportunity might offer to elude the enemy patrols which undoubtedly will be scouring the Virginia coast waiting for her to appear.

Jacob Fetzer, aged 45, well-known citizen of Jackson, O., while turtle-hunting in Salt Creek, 17 miles from Jackson, Sunday, was drowned. He was an expert swimmer and it is presumed that he was suddenly seized with cramps. He was alone when drowned. He was missed at 11 o'clock Sunday morning and at 11:30 Preston Swan, who resides near Richmondale, found Fetzer's body. The dead man is survived by a wife and five children.

Capt. Fred Hughes, of the Hilltop Fire company, was near Richmondale yesterday and he viewed the lifeless body of Fetzer, who was a successful fisherman and turtle hunter. Capt. Hughes was accompanied to Jackson county by Mrs. Hughes and son Huber.
